Just a little Sunday run

JOHN SKEELS of Berkeley raced to an early lead at the half-mile mark and outdistanced Nick Yray of Morgan Hill to win the first-ever Big Sur International Marathon, a spectacular Sunday extravaganza the likes of which have never before been seen on the central coast. Skeels, only seriously challenged by Yray at the 20-mile mark before pulling away again, was greeted by hundreds of spectators gathered at the Rio Road finish line. The crowd refused to go home, cheering finisher after finisher as the day wore on. Another big roar came when Leslie McMullin, a flight attendant from Oakland, won the women's race and finished 42nd overall. Top local finisher was Rick Suchomel of Carmel in 11th followed closely by Ron Parravano, a Carmel attorney who came in 14th. For more photographs, see pages 12-13. The wheels of juggernaut

Dear Editor:

Did you really believe that the Big Sur National Forest Scenic Area Bill S 2159 applied only to Big Sur? Not so. One of Sen. (Pete) Wilson's press releases indicates it extends from Carmel to the San Luis Obispo County line!

Of course, this is subject to change depending on the amount of flak generated by irate property owners. Unfortunately, what can diminish can also increase once the bill has passed as the boundaries can be changed without even notifying concerned property owners. The federal appetite for acquiring private land is insatiable as documented and deplored by the Government Accounting Office. Once the Federal Government acquires a foothold its authority spreads like a fungus.

The reason the ever-shifting boundary line is so important is the threat of condemnation of private property which it entails.

SEC. (a) "The Secretary is hereby authorized to acquire all lands and interests therein within the boundary of the Scenic Area...except...lands or interests owned by the State of California.

(b) lands...may be acquired only with the consent of the owner thereof or by condemnation."

Did you really believe that we were nearing the end of the planning process for our area after 14 long years and thousands of hours of citizens' discussions and suggestions? Not so. Wilson's bill will supersede our plan with a federal plan and three more years of uncertainty resulting in a plan in which the residents will have no direct participation. The senator didn't even give us a chance to put our own Local Coastal Plan into operation. We are being "sold out" — betrayed!

If property is purchased in the scenic area after S 2159 becomes law the purchaser may own his property for only 25 years or "until death do you part," or until the Secretary of Agriculture decides you are not developing your property to his liking. At that time you can be told to leave and a formula for payment of the unexpired balance of your term of residence will be paid to you. The secretary can also change the rules of his game as he sees fit. (I thought we once had a Bill of Rights and a Constitution!)

Furthermore, the bill is subject to amendment until the day it is voted on in Congress and forever after. The only way we can experience any relief is to convince Sen. Pete Wilson to drop the bill now. The bill was introduced March 7 and amended on March 25. It seems that as soon as a group expresses opposition the senator makes them part of "his team" to help administer the bill.

As an example, the Big Sur Land Trust, the Trust for Public Lands, and the Nature Conservancy have already been "amended in." Of course, that still leaves ample room for individual protestors to fill positions on the nine-member Scenic Area Advisory Board and the Big Sur Coast Trust of nine members who in turn can appoint numerous officers and employees.

With this nucleus there is no end to the bureaucracy which will grow and flourish. It is not surprising that the senator needs $500,000 to be donated by the government to grease the wheels of this juggernaut!

Dignity of office

Dear Editor:

Mayor Clint Eastwood has made it known he eschews the title "Mayor" and would rather remain just plain "Clint." That may have a ring of Jimmy Stewart or Gary Cooper and be just the touch Hollywood likes; perhaps, also, it represents the intent of some Carmel voters. An elected chief executive has an enormous and personal responsibility to the electorate. To downgrade the office in any manner is to denigrate it. The dignity of the office and the dignity of the officers must be maintained. In the next two to four years, crucial problems will be addressed that will affect for the foreseeable future the quality of the lives and living of us all. These are vexing problems that will require all the dignity and perspicacity our officials can muster.

Terrorism's seed bed

Dear Editor:

Middle Eastern terrorists have recently brutalized and murdered American citizens, including women and children, in Greece, Italy, Austria and aboard a cruise ship. Yet few realize the well-documented link between these terrorists and Nicaragua's Sandinista government.

The connection goes as far back as 1969 when PLO guerrillas operating terrorist training camps in Lebanon had as one of their first students Thomas Borge, now Nicaragua's interior minister and one of Sandinistas' nine ruling commandantes. Borge later used the PLO as an intermediary to obtain arms for the Sandinistas from North Korea and Vietnam. According to the July 23, 1979 issue of U.S. News and World Report, the PLO soon began shipping arms directly to the Sandinistas. This came to public attention when a PLO-chartered aircraft, ostensibly transporting medical supplies from Beirut for Nicaraguan refugees, was discovered by the Tunisian government to be carrying 50 tons of arms, including anti-aircraft guns.

Today, Nicaragua maintains one of the world's few embassies for the PLO. On a state visit to Nicaragua in July 1980, strongman Arafat praised "the strategic and military ties between the Sandinistan and Palestinian revolutions. The links between us are not new. Your comrades did not come to our country just to train, but also to fight. Anyone who threatens Nicaragua will have to face Palestinian combatants," noted in the Managua Domestic News Service, July 22, 1980.

In January 1981, PLO pilots were dispatched to Nicaragua to train the Sandinistas to fly helicopters and cargo aircraft, noted in Newsweek, March 15, 1982. PLO officers now conduct guerrilla training camps within Nicaragua, Business Week, May 2, 1982.

As reported in the New York Times of Sept. 1, 1984, Muammar Qadhafi admitted that, "Libyan fighters, arms, and backing to the Nicaraguan people have reached them because they fight with us. They fight America on its own ground."

Libya provided the Sandinistas with a $100 million loan in 1980; the Washington Post, July 19, 1981; and subsequent shipments of arms. One such shipment that was intercepted in Brazil contained 84 tons of guns, explosives, wire-guided missiles, mortars, 90mm cannons, multiple rocket launchers, and light artillery rockets. Libyan troops are now fighting side by side with the Sandinistas to defeat the freedom fighter Contras, noted the New York Times, Sept. 2, 1984.

Even the Ayatollah Khomeini has sent oil and arms to Nicaragua, in addition to pledging funding for the international terrorists presence there as reported by ABC News, January 1985.

Those who oppose anti-American and anti-Semitic terrorism and Marxism, and believe in our nation's future had better back President Reagan's plan to supply Nicaraguan freedom fighters with $100 million in aid before terrorism's seed-bed sprouts and spreads throughout Central America and across our southern borders.

A sense of unfairness

Dear Editor:

Now that I've had an hour to gather myself, now that the tears have dried and the knot in my throat has subsided, I think I can express why I cried with joy and sorrow to behold Vladimir Horowitz playing his last concert for his Russian fans.

It isn't just that he became my first real flesh-and-blood hero back in 1957 when I was eight years old, when I'd come home from the third grade each day, lock myself in my room, put on one of my many Horowitz albums and pretend I was he.

No, it isn't just that I know, as most piano lovers know, that Horowitz has always been regarded the "greatest pianist alive or dead."

No, it isn't that I am easily overcome by cheap and orchestrated sentimentality bordering on two-bit melodrama.

What it is, for me if no one else, is a sense of unfairness that the blessed and gifted, divinely so, should fall victim to the same bonds of physical deterioration that claim the rest of our lot.

Far too many people are so undeserving of the cosmic fluke called "life" that it leaves me no choice but to wish them a speedy demise. And for those of us whose humanistic, altruistic values qualify us as deserving, though we lack profound brilliance and leave no gifts behind, even we owe it to future applicants to depart this dimension someday.

But those so very rare and truly great spirits who bless us all, even if some of us are oblivious to their contributions, do not deserve to die, at least not in common lifespans.

My tears of joy and sorrow this morning, multi-faceted as they were, primarily flowed from this feeling that soon we will lose another great spirit who deserves to live so much longer for all of our benefit.

Shocked at Bradley

Dear Editor:

I am shocked. I recently heard one of Tom Bradley's radio commercials which personally attacked Gov. Deukmejian. Given Bradley's low standing in the polls and his indecision concerning Rose Bird I suppose I shouldn't be surprised by his tactics.

Bradley obviously underestimates the voters of this community. We see through the commercials as being the actions of a desperate candidate.

In the 1982 campaign for governor, Deukmejian and Bradley addressed the issues. Bradley lost. Obviously if he runs a clean campaign, and discusses the issues this time, Bradley will lose again. Bradley must feel that he has to make personal attacks on the governor to win. We all know he can't win on a discussion of the issues.

Listen to library staff

Dear Editor:

Three former members of the Carmel administration who, for various reasons, opposed any change in the present Harrison Memorial Library building, were not re-elected.

Let's hope the new administration, when considering library changes, will listen to the library director, her staff, and the library patrons.

Lengthy list of issues

May 6 council agenda packed full of promise(s)

By MICHAEL GARDNER

CLINT EASTWOOD'S first agenda as mayor of Carmel reads like a chapter right out of a history book on controversial issues in this town.

The real question on the May 6 meeting is not what's on the agenda, but rather what's not.

In keeping with his campaign promises, Eastwood is approaching his first official session with a no-nonsense, let's-get-on-with-it attitude.

Eastwood has ordered several major items to be placed on the council agenda, including a proposed Harrison Memorial Library annex, Piccadilly Park restrooms and design, the future of Flanders Mansion, appointments to the planning commission, and the possible dissolution of the Business License and Code Review Board.

Coupled with a long list of old business, the agenda for next Tuesday is nearly 50 items long, leaving one to wonder what the council will do for an encore.

The council, when it meets at 4 p.m. at city hall, will discuss:

- Whether the city should proceed with plans to build a $905,000 annex for Harrison Memorial Library and its accompanying $685,000, 20-space underground parking garage and public restrooms.
- The possible sale of Flanders Mansion inside Mission Trail Park that now houses a private residence and the Carmel Art Institute.
- Public restrooms in the back of Piccadilly Park and the possible redesign of the landscaping, which has been described as "miniature golf course" and "pagoda."
- A resolution proposed by the planning commission on developing special rules for ice cream parlors.
- Appointments of city representatives to numerous government agencies ranging from the planning commission to the Carmel Beach Task Force to the Holman Highway Task Force.
- A proposal to develop a recreation element for inclusion in the general plan. The proposal is generally thought to be one part of an expected move toward more city involvement in recreation programs and the Carmel Youth Center.
- A report from the Scenic Road Property Owners concerning issues in that area, including Fourth of July fireworks, fires on the beach, access stairways to the beach, and policing problems. The owners also plan to ask the council to start a beach commission.
- A general discussion of water issues, basically focusing on joining the assessment zone on the proposed San Clemente Dam.

•

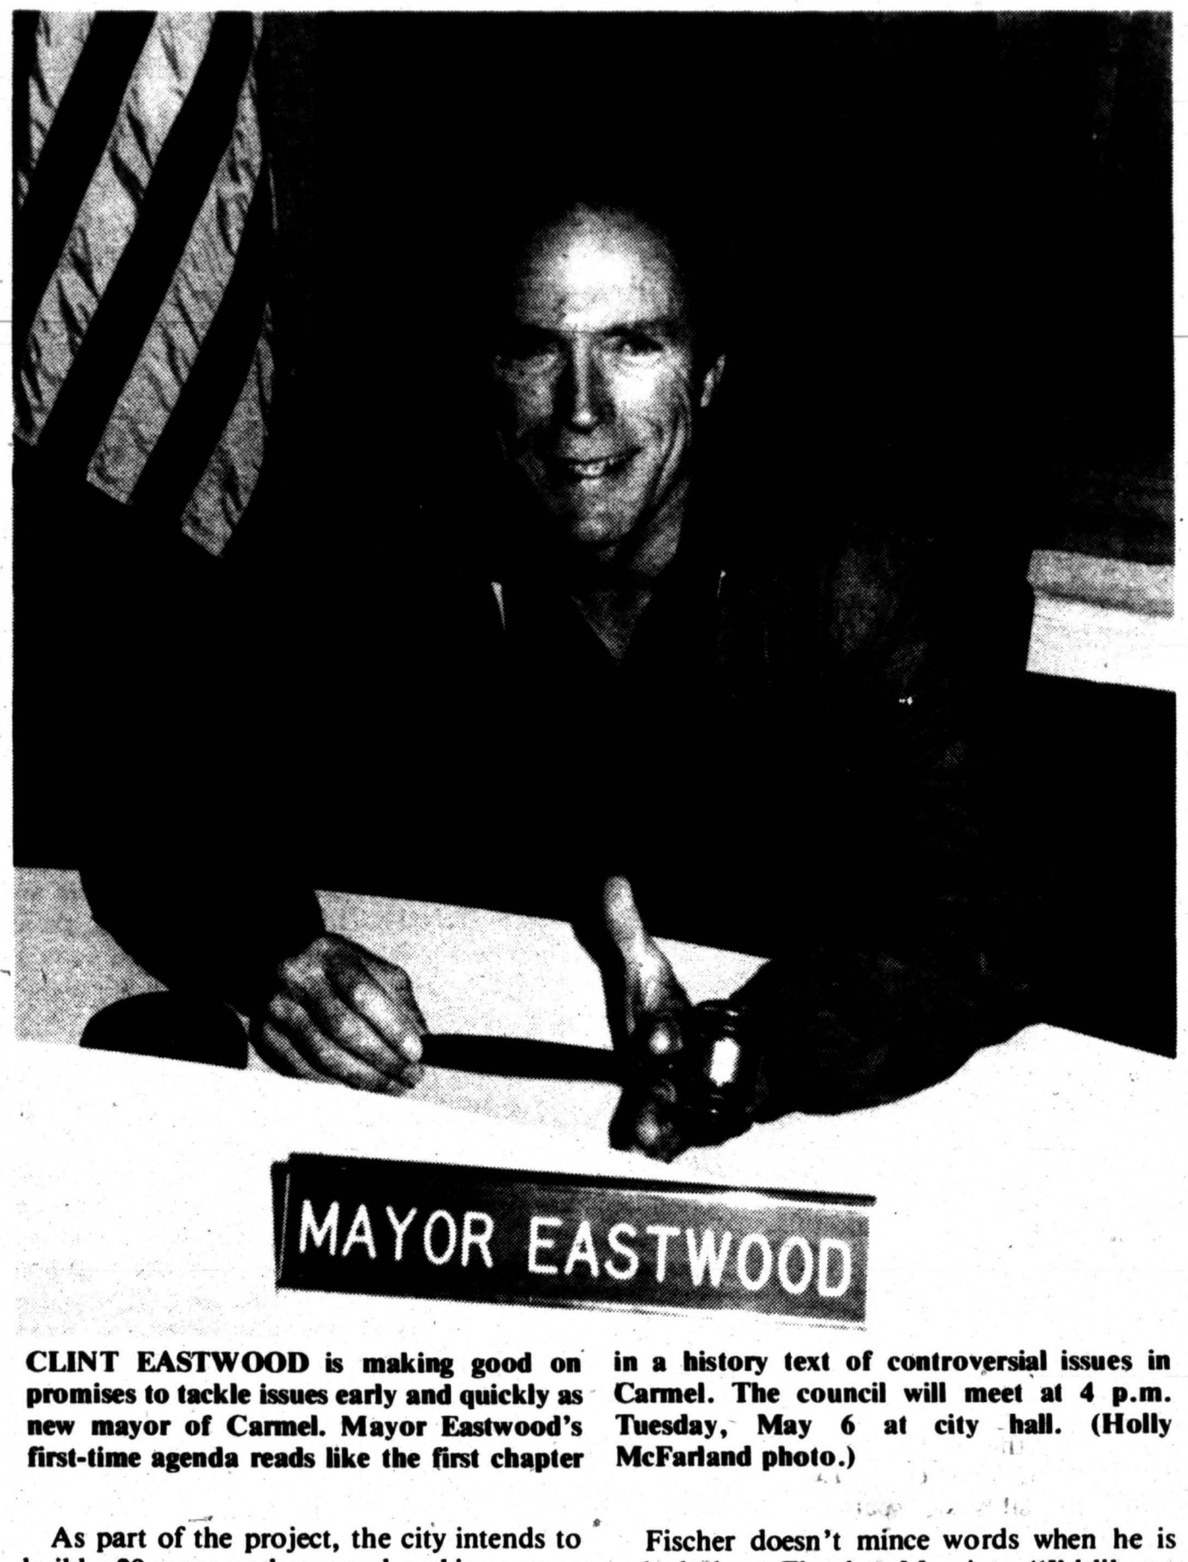
ALSO A review of the city's growth forecasts in regard to water use from the proposed dam and possible formation of a citizens water committee.

- Whether to pave the proposed senior citizen housing site with decomposed granite so the property can be used for parking until construction begins on the Dolores Street project later this year.
- Proposed changes in the parallel parking pattern on Junipero Avenue from Sixth to Third avenues.
- Whether to allow fireworks on the beach July 4, and what restrictions should be applied on parking and traffic in the beach area during the holiday.
- A proposal from Eastwood to dissolve the Business License and Code Review Board. (See related story, page 4.)
- The status of the Mission Ranch, Odello and Spanish Bay lawsuits. This discussion tentatively is set for behind closed doors, however Eastwood has indicated he may ask for an open meeting after he talks with City Atty. Don Freeman.

Perhaps it is appropriate that one of the first issues that the new council faces is that of the proposed Harrison Memorial Library annex, a quarter-of-a-century yoke for the council.

The library board will present plans to the council for a 5,400 sq. ft. building that will cost an estimated $905,000 on three city-owned lots on the northwest corner of Lincoln Street and Sixth Avenue.

The library will finance construction costs, although trustees are asking the council to help pay about $80,000 for sitework, such as curbs and sidewalks.



CLINT EASTWOOD is making good on promises to tackle issues early and quickly as new mayor of Carmel. Mayor Eastwood's first-time agenda reads like the first chapter in a history text of controversial issues in Carmel. The council will meet at 4 p.m. Tuesday, May 6 at city hall. (Holly McFarland photo.)

As part of the project, the city intends to build a 20-space underground parking garage and public restrooms.

During the campaign, Eastwood said his preference would be to expand in adjacent buildings. However, he now seems willing to accept the library board's plan as long as trustees can afford the price tag.

"That doesn't seem to be feasible," he said of the idea of expanding to the east or north. "Sometimes you don't get your preference."

Eastwood appears to support the annex plan.

"If the library board does in fact want to move forward then it's time now to move forward."

Eastwood said it's time to make a decision rather than rehash past schemes. "If people start opening new avenues it will be another decade."

•

NEW COUNCILMAN Bob Fischer wants to look more closely at the bill before he agrees to the annex.

"That's my big concern. That has to be studied very closely. I'm not going to take any position until I've studied all sides," he said.

Councilwoman Helen Arnold agrees with Fischer on the cost and called the annex a "stop-gap measure."

"I'm becoming increasingly nervous at the cost of the project in that it won't solve the long-range problem. All this money will be gone and in 20 years we'll need more space," Arnold said.

Another long-standing issue has been the fate of Flanders Mansion, with proposals for its future ranging from a sale, to using it for a youth hostel to demolition.

Eastwood placed the matter on the first agenda, saying, "It's been remiss of the city to ask the taxpayers to keep supporting that when obviously there's no long-range plan to utilize that building."

According to cost estimates, the city would have to pay approximately $363,000 to repair the mansion. Eastwood, noting the deteriorating condition of the building, said "It's certainly not upgrading the area, it's degrading."

The city needs to admit it erred by keeping the mansion off the property tax rolls and "throwing good money after bad," Eastwood said.

Fischer doesn't mince words when he is asked about Flanders Mansion. "I'd like to get rid of it."

Arnold has been long been a supporter of John Cunningham and his Carmel Art Institute, which rents half the mansion. She also usually opposes the sale of park land.

Arnold said she could not vote to sell the mansion unless the use would be compatible with the area. She also wants to see any monies be set aside for the purchase of Mission Ranch Resort.

She added that "under those same circumstances" she would vote to sell the city property off Martin Way as long as a road would be provided from Martin Way into the park arboretum.

Another controversial park has been Piccadilly on the west side of Dolores Street between Ocean and Seventh avenues.

No one is proposing to sell Piccadilly Park, however Eastwood has placed on the agenda the issues of redesign and public restrooms.

Eastwood believes that restrooms in the back would not take away from the park because "only the front is being utilized...The back is just a sump hole with no effective use."

"It's important to have restrooms a little more central. It's right on the road to the Post Office," Eastwood said.

The mayor also hopes to generate interest from local organizations, such as the garden club, and redo the "pagoda look" of Piccadilly.

•

EASTWOOD SAID the park looks like a place where "Mickey and Minnie go to hold hands," referring to the popular Disney characters.

Arnold does not support restrooms at Piccadilly, believing that the 4,000 sq. ft. park is too small.

"I went up there last Saturday when it was in quite good use and asked people. Eight people said it would spoil the park. 'Where would you put them?' is the question that kept coming up," Arnold said.

Arnold said putting the restrooms in the back of the property would not be appropriate because of possible policing problems.

Arnold had championed a redesign of the park earlier, but only managed to push through a few changes.

She said she would like to see the iron rails and cable fence by the pond removed. "It doesn't serve the purpose it was designed for," she said.

Fischer, an ex-assistant police chief, agreed with Arnold about the policing problems if the restrooms are built in the back.

Those problems would decrease if the lot were level, rather than sloping west as it does now, Fischer explained.

The restrooms could be built after the park is redesigned, he suggested.

"What else can you do? We can't put it out front. If you consider it, that lot has to be level," Fischer said.

One of the most often voiced issues of the election was ice cream cones, or rather the lack of them in Carmel.

The council will receive a resolution from the planning commission asking whether the commission should develop an ordinance easing restrictions on ice cream parlors. (See related story, page 4.)

"It's one of those objects to make the city look foolish on an international level," Eastwood said of the great ice cream cone fiasco of last summer.

"My problem with it is the way they handled it," he said of the past council.

Eastwood is uncertain whether he can support the proposed takeout-only ice cream cone store proposed to replace the barbershop on San Carlos Street.

•

'I HAVE to see how it comes down from the planning commission," he said.

However, Eastwood adamantly supports sit-down ice cream parlors. "In the tradition of the Carmel Creamery, I see nothing wrong with that," he said.

The recreation committee will be making a presentation to the council asking for the development of a recreation element in the general plan.

Committee member Ken White explained that the presentation is "just to start the process."

There are 167 cities in California that consider recreation noteworthy enough to be included in the general plan elements. The closest other optional element is "public and service facilities," which is included in the general plans of 63 cities, White said.

The element would focus on the goals and policies of the city toward recreation. It is generally thought to be the first step toward a full-time recreation program in Carmel.

Scenic Road property owners also will make a presentation to the council on policing problems, access stairways, fireworks and the formation of a beach commission.

The proposed formation of the beach commission came out of that session with Eastwood.

Another agenda itme is whether to prohibit fireworks on Carmel Beach this Fourth of July. Since a melee a few years ago the council has banned fireworks from the beach.

Several of the Scenic Road property owners suggested that another one-year trial be given, but a couple of others opposed allowing fireworks.

Eastwood said he wants to talk to the police department before taking a position.

On another beach-related matter, the council will discuss ordering the immediate installation of new access stairs to the beach.

Access stairs are included in the beach walkway plan, but Eastwood asked that work begin immediately so that construction can be finished by summer. By doing so it also separates the non-controverisal aspect of the access stairs from the politics of the walkway plan.

On a parking matter, the council will consider changing the spaces on Junipero Avenue from parallel to diagonal, which will add about eight more spots.

Other agenda items before the council include:

- A public hearing on unmet transportation needs in Carmel, which is required as part of the city's expenditure of state monies on roads projects.
- A status report on the city ordinance restricting locations of newsracks.
- A request to take a position on Sen. Pete Wilson's proposed legislation to federalize Big Sur. "I'm against the bill," Eastwood said flatly.

Ice cream at issue again

Planners look to city council for direction

By NANCY HILLS

'TELL US what you want," is the message the Carmel Planning Commission is sending to the new-look Carmel City Council.

Despite concerns expressed by two commissioners, the planning commission April 23 forwarded a resolution to the city council requesting direction for changing the city code governing ice cream parlors. The council will receive the resolution at its May 6 meeting, the first for new Mayor Clint Eastwood and councilmembers Elinor Laiolo and Bob Fischer.

"No one would want to labor under the criticism that has been leveled at us," Chairman Gene Cava said right before the commission voted on the resolution. Cava was referring to the local and national attention generated by the denial of ice cream store use permits in the past year.

On the same meeting agenda was William Lawson's application for a takeout ice cream store on San Carlos Street. The application was continued until after the council considers the commission's request.

The commission also approved a use permit for an art gallery/studio/school, approved changes requested by Saks Fifth Avenue to the Carmel Plaza and denied a use permit for a real estate office in the residential commercial district.

The resolution the planning commission voted to forward to the city council states that ice cream parlors are an "unmet need" in Carmel and that a change in the code might make it "easier to approve an ice cream store."

The city council will give the planning commission its opinion whether or not to change the current ordinance and what it would like to see changed. If the council decides the ordinance needs changing, the planning commission will draw up a new ordinance for the council to vote on.

Carmel received nationwide attention last year when the planning commission proposed a prohibition against selling ice cream cones as part of a new ice cream parlor use permit. The commission based the prohibition on an ordinance against uncovered takeout food.

Allowing ice cream cones, the planning commission report stated at that time, would increase litter on the sidewalks and set a legal precedent for takeout food. That precedent could be used by businesses to claim the right to sell other types of uncovered takeout foods like cotton candy and corn dogs. That would contribute to the litter problem and create a "carnival-like" atmosphere in Carmel, the report stated.

The controversy continued after that particular application and subsequent ones for the sale of ice cream were denied on the basis of water usage. No business can increase its water usage or use more water than the business it is replacing.

The planning commission also sent an ordinance to the city council (which the council approved) that classified any business that sold ice cream as an eating place.

Some people interpreted the denials as evidence of overregulation and found the nationwide attention embarrassing to the city.

It became an issue in the recent city election and was a focus of criticism for the former council and mayor.

Since the current code classifies a place that sells ice cream as an eating establishment, commercial enterprises that fall into that category must adhere to code regulations the resolution states are "difficult for ice cream stores to meet."

Though not specified in the planning commission resolution, some of the code requirements for eating places are two restrooms, no uncovered takeout food, and seating.

Commissioner Gene Hammond was prepared when the vote on the resolution came around.

Leading off the discussion, Hammond presented Planning Director Diane White with a copy of the minutes from a 1974 planning commission meeting when the ordinance against takeout food was developed.

BARBER HAROLD Wamsley waits for customers at his Carmel Barber Shop on San Carlos Street near Ocean Avenue. The planning commission continued an application by William Lawson to put a takeout-only ice cream store in the space. The commission continued the application until it receives direction from the Carmel City Council on codes affecting ice cream parlors. (Nancy Hills photo.)

Saying that he was "sympathetic with the concept the land use committee has come up with," Hammond added he was concerned that people thought that the ordinance against takeout food was a recent concept in Carmel. In actuality, Hammond said, the ordinance against takeout food was suggested by the planning commission in 1974 and passed by the city council soon after.

The 1974 ordinace Hammond passed out includes restrictions against formula and/or drive-restaurants, discount and outlet stores, catalog stores and many of the other types of businesses allowed in Carmel.

Another commissioner, Arthur Mertens, expressed concern that "the resolution requesting direction infers that there is an interest or feeling of disapproval of the takeout food ordinance.

"I hate to see our restrictions on takeout food be disallowed," he added.

As a member of the land use committee, Commissioner Ken White said his perspective on the request was in reference to the ordinance on soda fountains, not takeout food.

The last statement before the vote came from Cava.

Administrative reshuffling postponed by school board

CITING THE need for an evaluation process that would determine the success of the proposal, the Carmel Unified School District Board of Education Tuesday night postponed action on Supt. Robert Infelise's plan to shift administrative positions.

Infelise is recommending that current River School Principal Rosemary Montgomery be promoted to the central office administration as "director of curriculum and instruction."

She would be replaced by current middle school Vice Principal Karl Pallastrini. Carmel High School Vice-Principal Dee Dresser will assume Pallastrini's job at the middle school.

In addition, current district pyschologist Marvin Biasotti would be promoted to "director of pupil services."

According to Infelise, the shuffle will not result in additional administrative costs.

However, the district general fund would have to pay about $14,000 of the $34,000 for a new pyschologist. The remaining $20,000 would be financed through state monies, Infelise reported to the board.

Trustees Pat Herro and Claudia Daniels said the major concern with the proposal is that there are no guidelines on how to evaluate the success of the shuffling a year after adoption.

They wanted an evaluation procedure "so it won't be a matter of guessing at the end of the year how it went," Herro said.

And she wanted to know more reasoning for the shuffle. "What are we going to cure? What are we going to cure it with?" Herro questioned.

Trustee Hilton Bialek pointed out that he ran for office in the July recall campaign with a theme that the board should set policy and not become involved in administrative affairs.

"I campaigned on the issue that if I were elected to the school board I would hold the superintendent accountable and let him make the decisions, not me," Bialek said.

But Bialek, too, wanted more explanation of the reasons for the administrative changes. "I have to know if all of this stuff will make a difference," he said.

Condren wanted an evaluation plan, but overall she favored the proposal. "This is a good regrouping and I like it."

In other action, trustees got their first peek at the preliminary 1986-87 $8 million budget.

Key points in the plan:

- Carryover funds from 1986-87 will allow staff a 2 percent pay hike retroactive to June 1, 1985.
- The district could lose $500,000 in special state "basic aid" funds if Gov. George Deukmejian's education budget passes intact.
- A reserve of $100,000 has been set aside.
- Lottery income of more than $500,000 is projected, but unallocated because there are no guarantees that amount will be forthcoming next fiscal year.

No pass, no play rule before board

THE CONTROVERSIAL "C" average rule to participate in athletics and other extra-curricular activities will be discussed by the Carmel Unified School District Board of Education Tuesday, May 6.

Trustees will meet at 7 p.m. in the Carmel Middle School library.

There is a nationwide move to require high school students to carry a "C" average to participate in extra-curricular activities.

The Carmel proposal would implement that rule and also make students who receive more than one F ineligible to participate.

In other matters, trustees will discuss the peer tutoring program at Carmel High School, consider hiring a consultant to review possible asbestos in district buildings and consider an opinion on Prop. 51, the "deep pockets" measure designed to restrict cash awards in liability court cases.

Nuclear art at Carmel High School

THOMAS PERSSON, a Carmel High School senior, received first place in the "Living in the Nuclear Age" poster contest sponsored by the art department. The purpose of the contest was to "increase awareness and open dialogue about the nuclear age and provide an opportunity for artful self-expression on the concerns of the nuclear issue," according to teacher Sue Williams-Pierik. Other winners are: Elvina Scott, second place; Marc Grandjean, third prize; and Erica Radon, judge's award. (Michael Gardner photo.)

Nine add up to be winners

"I think the public should know whatever actions we took in the past was in response to the code as we knew it. No one wants to labor under the criticism leveled at us and the way the press has blown it out of proportion," Cava said.

When the vote finally came, it was unanimously approved, sending the resolution to the council.

•

EARLIER IN the meeting, the council reviewed an application by William Lawson to replace Harold Wamsley's barber shop on San Carlos Street with a takeout-only ice cream parlor. The size of the location makes offering seating to customers almost impossible.

Lawson was a part-owner of Swensen's Ice Cream Parlor on Ocean Avenue, a franchise operation that closed last year, leaving Carmel without an ice cream store.

Lawson said earlier that he had been looking for a place to relocate ever since Swensen's closed. He added the new store would not be a franchise operation.

While the discussion centered around whether or not the water statistics used by the city and Lawson proved the ice cream parlor would not use more than the barber shop, it was the possible change in the rules governing ice cream stores that prompted the planning commission to suggest that Lawson continue his application.

"There is the feeling that the new council would help us out of the sticky morass of the ice cream business," Commissioner Thomas Nash observed.

Lawson decided to ask the commission for a continuance until the city council had time to give the planning commission direction on the matter. Planning Director Diane White told Lawson the application probably would be rescheduled to the May 28 planning commission meeting.

•

IN OTHER business, the planning commission:

• Approved Saks Fifth Avenue's application to brick-up the windows along the Mission Street near Seventh Avenue entrance to Carmel Plaza. The commissioners voted for the change after Plaza leasing manager and part-owner Steven Jacobs promised them the Plaza would beautify the passageway.

The commission also approved four Saks Fifth Avenue signs to be placed against the walls of the Plaza. Commissioner Sandy Swain cast the only dissenting vote.

• Approved an art gallery, studio and school on Mission Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues. Applicants Doney Pavick and Diana Knight told the commission they would be teaching oil painting classes and working in the gallery themselves.

The space was formerly used by 20th Century Masters, an art gallery still located in the building.

• Denied a use permit to Benetti & Associates for a real estate office in the residential commercial district. Real estate offices are allowed only in the central commercial zone.

The business can continue, however, as a non-conforming use, Planning Director White told the commissioners, since it was a change of ownership for an existing real estate firm.

• Approved a lot line adjustment for Harold Santee on the northwest corner of San Antonio Street and Santa Lucia. The adjustment creates another building site. Cava voted against the line change.

• Denied a lot line adjustment for Lee Hill on the east side of San Antonio Street between Second and Fourth avenues. Two neighbors protested the change and there was a question whether the lot and home came under the jurisdiction of the California Coastal Commission.

Sierra Club plans public meeting on Big Sur measure

COMMUNITY leaders will gather Wednesday, May 7 to discuss Sen. Pete Wilson's proposed legislation to federalize Big Sur.

The session sponsored by the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Brey Hall at Carmel High School.

Committed to participate are: Monterey County Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman, Anne Notthoff of the National Resources Defense Council and Kevin Elliot, an aide to Wilson.

Other speakers have been invited but had not committed by press time.

The session is free and open to the public.

(See related story pages 10-11.)

Carmel equestrians take top honors

Four young Carmel riders took top awards at the April 5 Lone Oak Ranch Horse Show in San Martin, California.

Pamela Charland, 12, riding "First Step", owned by Valley View Stables, was High Point Champion. She placed first in Pony Hunters and Pony Equitation and placed second in Pony Pleasure and Pony Champion Pleasure classes.

Kelly Allen, 13, riding her horse, "Who's the Boss", was High Point Champion in the 13 and under division. She also placed first in Working Hunters, Hunters Under Saddle, Hunters 13 and Under, and in Hunt Seat Equitation.

Anne Marie Jones, 11, riding "Can't Miss", owned by Liz Owens, placed first in Jumpers 13 and Under.

Carol Ammons placed first in Hunters 18 and Over.

Other riders from Carmel, including Danielle Charland, riding "Formal Attire", and Amber Heintzberger, riding "Penny", also won ribbons in their divisions.

Agency on aging needs applicants

Fourth District Supervisor Sam Karas is seeking qualified and interested applicants to serve an unexpired term on the Area Agency on Aging Advisory Committee. The appointment will be until Jan. 1, 1987.

The committee meets at 12:30 on the third Thursday of each month at various locations throughout Monterey County. Applicants who meet the criteria mentioned above and who are able to meet at the appointed times are urged to contact Karas's office at 1200 Aguajito Rd. in Monterey, or call 649-4141.

BEHIND THE LINES
BY MICHAEL GARDNER

Three-dot journalism is alive and well

QUICKIES about town, or three-dot journalism is alive and well in Carmel...

New Mayor Clint Eastwood proves he didn't have his fingers crossed when making those campaign promises to cut out the nonsense and move ahead. Take a peek at the May 6 agenda and you know what I doth speak...

Speaking of, hope is that Clint will tear down that wall of secrecy most councils act behind. It's called litigation and is just another excuse to go into the proverbial smoke-filled back rooms. Clint, angry at the Mission Ranch shenanigans of the past council, promises open government. Now's his chance with Odello, Spanish Bay and Mission Ranch presumably on the "executive session" agenda...

Making the rounds is the new mayor. A known night-owl, Clint's sleeping habits are changing with the new job. No more late nights at the pub for you, Mr. Mayor...Spies had Clint uptown at about 7:15 a.m. this week, walking speedily about gathering notes for future discussions with business folk. No tourist hassles this way...

It wasn't a unique occurence. He was up at dawn the other day to meet water district Director Nick Lombardo. Hope Clint gives the more moderate directors such as Pat Bernardi and John Williams a coffee so both sides are heard...

Lunch at the Way Station Inn, Clint meets mayors from other jurisdictions. As the new kid on the block Clint had little chance of holding Carmel's seat on the water board.

The appointment went to Sand City Mayor David Pendergrass; a pro-growther whose philosophy directly contradicts that of his predecessor, ex-Carmel Mayor Charlotte Townsend. A crucial appointment for Sand City, which is wooing hotels denied by the moratorium in Monterey. The slow-growth conservation movement was apparently dealt a big blow by the appointment of Pendergrass.

Big loser is Seaside Mayor Lance McClair, who lobbied heavily for the appointment but failed to win a majority of the votes from the mayors Friday afternoon...

Speaking of scoops, ice cream again is an issue as the council looks at a resolution to ease cone restrictions. Water once again will be an issue since the city has that ordinance saying that no business can replace another if the new shop consumes more water than the previous use. So maybe a couple of these applications cannot be approved unless the ordinance is changed. Otherwise, the city would be violating its own rules...

Unlikely is the word to use when considering the application for a take-out ice cream cone store to replace the barbershop on San Carlos. This new council, despite fears to the contrary, doesn't anticipate setting a precedent. Next thing you know there would Iowans in Bermuda shorts and black dress shoes munching down Ocean with candy apples, cotton candy, popcorn and pretzels...

Of course, the city may make an exception for ice cream later on, as noted by the resolution before the council May 6. Meanwhile, look forward to another free lick-in sometime this summer...

More water news is that cities' growth projections going to the water district eventually will provide an interesting look-see at who wants building where...

One big question for Carmel is how much will over-projection of growth by other jurisdictions cut into Carmel's potential water allocation from the new dam, if one is built. Remember, during the original allocation development Carmel predicted cautious growth and water use was based on drought-inspired conservation. Guess which city is having water problems while others merrily build multi-story hotels?

Marking May 6 on the calendar, the question is not what's on the agenda but what's not. Other than Mission Ranch and parking, just about every campaign issue is on the council's agenda. Big question is how unruly will the out-of-town media become when denied access to the council chambers in favor of the residents. General thought is that if you make the media's life miserable, or at least don't cater to them, perhaps they'll get discouraged and go away. Sort of like, "Don't feed the cat, Johnny, or we'll never get rid of him." "Awww dad..."

And, will all of those who want to speak on the controversial issues — library, Piccadilly Park, Flanders Mansion, July Fourth fireworks — as well as residents and those with business before the council be adequately heard? How tired will the council be when it gets to the closed session on Spanish Bay and Odello lawsuits?

Early warning for Elinor: The tentative agenda doesn't set aside time for the pledge of allegiance. That's been her pet campaign issue.

Down in Big Sur that was Karin Strasser Kauffman saying that last month's meeting between Friends of the Big Sur Coast and Sen. Pete Wilson went smoothly and that she is "proud" of how the controversy was even-tempered.

So why is Jim Jossoff, president of that organization, writing an apology to Wilson aides Otto Bos and Sally Rakow? "I have apologized to you, Otto, and I want to apologize to you, Sally, for the heat of the meeting we had with the senator and the two of you," Jossoff wrote.

A P.S.: Perhaps Big Sur residents should know that the media was barred from attending that meeting at the airport. But it wasn't Bos or Wilson who kicked us out. On the contrary, both requested that we stay. It was Jossoff who walked us to the door...

That's no absolution of Wilson's "damn the torpedos, full speed ahead" attitude with his bill. Wilson refused to give local officials and residents an early peek for review before introducing the measure.

Big Sur residents owe a thanks to Strasser Kauffman and fellow supe Sam Karas for spending all day last week listening to their concerns about the bill. The session scheduled to end at noon didn't break up until mid-afternoon...

Librarians this coming budget year want to do a little redecorating and cleaning up of the Harrison building. Paint job is top priority. "No comment" is assumed answer on chances the new council will give its okay to the annex proposal...

Tacky, tacky. Shag O'Rourke, whose work I enjoy, painted a sign down at a local deli declaring smoked tongue as Clint's favorite sandwich. That and the sign advertising "Clintville" T-shirts has to go. But overall, merchants have exercised commendable restraint in its public advertising of Clint memorabilia...

Yellow lines on press releases are designed to grab your attention and these two did, seeing as how it's local news...

Bob Infelise, school superintendent, will represent school administrators on an 11-member "infectious diseases" task force put together by State Supt. of Public Instruction Bill Honig. Infelise's appointment is based on his handling of the AIDS case in Carmel last September.

Second note concerns ex-CUSD administrator Rich Hawkins. Hawkins, who lives in Carmel Valley, has been promoted to the position of vice president for operations for Slautterback, a product and packaging firm in Sand City...

Paul Laub, dubbed the "T-shirt mogul of Carmel" by the out-of-town press, is laughing all the way to the bank these days. But Laub is sharing some of the good fortune, establishing a $1,000 fund to be used at the discretion of the mayor for youth activities.

Now the real question: Am I a threat to Herb after a try at three-dot journalism? We'll know next week whether it continues or the old style returns.

Speaking of which, let's run a few items clipped by the editor's scissors last week.

HEAD 'EM UP, MOVE 'EM OUT

Rolling right along, two young fellas from up north way, Fremont and Hayward, Cookie heard 'em say, rode into town looking for Rowdy Yates.

These two young bucks — Ken Buffy and Dan Cohen are their handles — wanted ol' Rowdy to pen his name to a comic book that was published 25 years ago in 1961.

For you young whippersnappers, Favor was played by Eric Fleming in the hour-long popular television sagebrush saga that ran from 1958 through 1966.

And if you don't know who played Rowdy Yates, then no city council meetings for you until you promise to watch seven spaghetti Westerns and five Dirty Harrys. Then maybe Clyde will let you in on the secret. (Hint, hint.)

MAIL CALL

"Keep those cards and letters" should be the motto at city hall as thousands of pieces of correspondence spill in congratulating Clint. Hundreds more arrive daily at his personal office.

In addition to the letters, Chula Vista students sent artwork. More paintings than are at any given museum have arrived. And a couple of boxes held Blue Chip cookies and balloons from Big Spring, Tex.

Some guys have all the luck. All I get are bills, Reader's Digest sweepstakes and soap samples.

Safe Rides program moves to CHOMP

Safe Rides, the student volunteer group which gives rides to teens who have been drinking or who are with drinking drivers, will have a new home at Community Hospital in April.

Volunteers from five local high schools began operations out of the Main Conference Room April 4-5. For the last three years, the Safe Rides program has operated out of Carmel High School.

Using a special telephone line linked through the Carmel High School office and two-way radios, student volunteers answer calls from fellow students and respond in pairs to give them rides home. The students work in teams of five with an adult supervisor. Hours of operation of the service are from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. Fridays and Saturdays when school is in session.

"When a student calls, the information is taken down and two students are dispatched with a two-way radio," said Safe Rides President Dee Myers. "They stay in contact with the base through their radios as they pick up and drop off the student. Then they return."

Participating high schools include Robert Louis Stevenson, Carmel High School, Pacific Grove High School, Monterey High School, and York School, according to Myers. About 117 students and 47 adults are involved in the program, she added.

The group wanted to relocate to the hospital because radio transmission and reception would be better from the hilltop location and because they preferred to be in a facility open and staffed around-the-clock, Myers said.

Since the inception of the program as a means to cut drunk driving accidents, "student awareness has really been raised about drinking and driving," she added.

Sen. Wilson's Big Sur plan

Strasser Kauffman voices opposition to bill

By MICHAEL GARDNER

SEN. PETE Wilson's proposed plan to federalize Big Sur would "scrap" the county's land use plan, give too much power to the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture and is "overwhelmingly" opposed by the residents of that region.

With those thoughts in mind, Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman has formally announced her opposition to Wilson's measure.

Strasser Kauffman, whose district includes Big Sur, had withheld opinion on Wilson's proposed legislation until after she had a chance to meet with Big Sur residents April 24 at the Grange Hall.

The overflow crowd spent three hours with Strasser Kauffman, Fourth District Supervisor Sam Karas, Monterey County Planning Director Robert Slimmon and his senior planner, Dave Young.

Not one Big Sur resident, some of whom travelled all the way from Lucia, supported the legislation.

"There's no question the entire community is united in opposition to the bill," Strasser Kauffman told the Carmel Pine Cone/Carmel Valley Outlook after the meeting.

"I feel I have some authority from the community to speak my mind on the bill. I have to say I have strong objections to the bill," she continued.

Strasser Kauffman's key criticisms of the bill are that: it gives property condemnation rights to the secretary of agriculture, allows the secretary to change boundaries, and the bill does not provide any control over development on federal lands — especially mining and timbering.

"This bill does not give us the kind of backup the senator has promised. It comes with a heavy hand and in effect it takes over and scraps the land use plan and puts the secretary of agriculture in charge," Strasser Kauffman believes.

SUPERVISOR KARIN Strasser Kauffman readies for her April 24 meeting with Big Sur residents over Sen. Pete Wilson's proposed legislation to federalize the area. After the session, Strasser Kauffman said she will publicly oppose the measure. (Michael Gardner photo.)

"It gives the secretary of agriculture the authority to change boundaries and condemn property. We can't let Wilson off the hook for using that kind of language," she said.

"The county is not going to condemn land to protect it for future generations. We have to work harder than that."

If Wilson really wants to help preserve Big Sur, Strasser Kauffman said, then he should introduce legislation that would provide Monterey County with funds to buy viewshed properties for permanent open space.

•

THE SUPERVISOR also suggested that Wilson enact legislation that would tighten controls over mining and timbering on federal lands.

The mining of Pico Blanco is an example of federal protection measures, opponents of Wilson's bill have sarcastically said in the past.

Some key provisions of Wilson's bill:

- Places Big Sur under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture. A paid "Big Sur Coast Trust" would be established to raise funds for land acquisition.
- A separate nine-member advisory board would be established to assist the secretary's office in making decisions governing the federal lands in Big Sur.

• Gives the secretary the authority to condemn public lands in the event that policies in the LUP are "weakened" by a shift in local county politics.

• Gives the secretary authority to alter the boundaries at his whim.

• Provides for $500,000 in seed money to implement the program.

Strasser Kauffman opened the meeting with Big Sur residents with some harsh words for Wilson, questioning why the senator refused to slow introduction of the legislation until locals had the opportunity to review its provisions.

"We're doing the senator's homework today," Strasser Kauffman told the group. "This (a meeting of residents) should have been done in the first place."

The legislation came as "a surprise out of the blue" when Wilson called her just an hour before the measure was to be introduced, Strasser Kauffman said. "No one was permitted to see it before it was introduced."

She promised that the board of supervisors will not take any position until after hearing Big Sur residents. "We will not move without you," she said.

Strasser Kauffman opposes inclusion of a San Luis Obispo County representative on the advisory board because that government has a pro-growth attitude. "Their coastal policy is in direct contradiction to our own."

As far as the trust is concerned, that agency will just be another "paid bureaucracy," she said. "I don't see the need for a separate bureaucracy at all."

On the power of the secretary of agriculture to take over private property, Strasser Kauffman said, "condemnation of land is a phrase that usually doesn't cross my lips."

The county will take control of viewshed lands "only when the property owners are satisfied...only when they are adequately compensated."

•

STRASSER KAUFFMAN pointed out that with the power to alter the boundaries, the secretary of agriculture could eventually put the Carmel Highlands area under federal control.

She added that "secretaries of agriculture come and go about every two years, but at least the locals are elected and there's a responsibility to the residents."

And on local opposition to Wilson's measure, Strasser Kauffman said, "I have not received one phone call from anyone saying 'I think this is a good idea'."

Wilson's legislation also came under some criticism from Slimmon.

Slimmon read his memorandum questioning some of the provisions in the legislation.

"As with most legislation at this stage of development, this bill is rather disorganized in structure and content, raises more questions than it answers, and is difficult, if not impossible, to assess," Slimmon wrote.

Some of Slimmon's concerns are:

• "Boundaries are not defined except for quite general language, nor are maps available. Also, area of federal intent is not defined. Therefore, implications of the bill cannot be determined.

• "The bill appears to give the secretary of agriculture the power to determine that the LUP is not, in fact, adequate — specifically, if project variances or exceptions to the LUP are granted (not permitted by law) or if the LUP is amended to be inconsistent with the (federal Coastal Zone Management Act).

• "Broad powers are given to the secretary of agriculture to make minor revisions to the area covered by the bill without any local input. Further, the secretary is to prepare the management plan with only a multi-agency Scenic Area Advisory Board to be established to advise him on its preparation and implementation. The U.S. Forest Service representative is to be the chairman. This is despite the statement of purpose to maximize coordination with state and local government and landowners.

• "Provision for a Big Sur Coast Trust to accept property in a manner identical to that of existing local land trusts. The difference is the secretary's direct control through exclusive authority over the expenditure of funds and the requirement that title to all acquired assets be conveyed to him."

•

Sandy Sanderson of the Pacific Valley area was one of many residents who warned that since the legislation has been introduced it is nearly impossible to have the measure withdrawn.

"The only way we have of killing that bill is to defeat it in committee," Sanderson said.

He called the measure a "total fiasco" and asked that county government send a contigent to Washington to fight the measure when it comes up for committee hearings.

Katherine Short pointed out that the just-certified land use plan adequately safeguards the area. "The only thing we do need is money" for the county to buy viewshed properties.

She said there are several sources of funding on the state and national level and suggested the county pursue those avenues.

Everett McClosky, a 30-year Big Sur resident, said, "We weren't asking for them to come in and take us over. We are asking them to abide by our land use plan. I think he got the wash mixed up."

Barbara Von Platz Chamberlain said the Wilson bill dangles three "carrots" in front of residents to lure their support. Those are: funding, offshore oil drilling and forest service controls.

But, she said that the forest service will not restrict mining and timbering under this bill. "They have their own rules and will do their own thing."

The Big Sur area is "the least likely" region for offshore oil drilling and that the issue of drilling off the coast must be dealt with overall rather than piecemeal regions, she said.

And Von Platz Chamberlain added that there are other funding sources "that can be tapped without federal legislation" so that "local control is retained."

Brian Lyke, general manager of Esalen Institute, said, "our view is one of the special quality of Big Sur. It's not just the beauty, which is obvious to everybody, but the unique cultural life."

Lyke said Big Sur is a place where the "fat cats and little people all pull together. The loss of that unique life would be a tragedy."

Sterling Doughty agreed. He said there is a German word "heimat" that is loosely translated to mean homeland where families of people live and work together in a special place.

Federalization of Big Sur would break up the heimat. "That is a treasure that should not be lost," Doughty said.

Gary Koeppel, owner of Coast Gallery, asked that the county begin to take action on the legislation.

•

'WE CAN sit here and philosophize all day. This is now a political battle," he said. "I urge you to put pressure on Mr. Pannetta (U.S. Rep. Leon Panetta)"

Koeppel argued that federalization of Big Sur will draw "10 to 25 million" more visitors each year.

And he pointed out that the Monterey Peninsula needs to be wary because those additional tourists also will stop in Monterey and Carmel.

"If you think the Monterey Peninsula has a growth problem now, wait until Big Sur is federalized," Koeppel warned.

John Harlan of Lucia said federal money is a "key ingredient" for the LUP "to make it fly."

However, Harlan opposes Wilson's bill. He said the measure is described as protecting, preserving and saving. "I don't want to be saved. I don't want to be protected and I don't want to be preserved."

James Hill, owner of El Sur Ranch, said the residents should pressure Pannetta to oppose the bill. On the federal funding Hill said, "I can't believe federal money is going to save Big Sur."

Bobbe Jeffers of Carmel said, "I am very much opposed to all aspects of this plan." She pointed out that the secretary of agriculture would have the power to alter the boundaries. "The bill says they can set the boundaries any place they want to."

An often asked question was why Wilson introduced the legislation when in the past he had opposed federalization of Big Sur.

"You look at who's pushing the buttons and why," said Steve Pappas.

Patricia Smith Ramsey of Carmel Highlands told the group that the Republic Central Committee of Monterey County had voted to oppose the bill.

"Sen. Wilson is not making any points. He's eroding his own party," she said.

City of Carmel may take over Carmel Youth Center

THE FINANCIALLY-strapped Carmel Youth Center Board of Directors will lay off its full-time employees this June and only open the doors on a part-time basis through the summer.

The cost-cutting move is designed to save monies that can be used for programs next fall if a proposed partial takeover by the city of Carmel is negotiated.

Under the agreement now being discussed, the City of Carmel would pay for a full-time recreation supervisor to run programs in conjunction with the youth center and Carmel Unified School District. The city would also help pay other salary costs, maintenance and janitorial expenses.

Youth center directors would oversee programs at the facility and retain autonomy from the city, although council representatives may become members of the board.

The city takeover is expected to be discussed by the council during budget hearings in June.

Contacted by the Carmel Pine Cone/-Carmel Valley Outlook, three members of the city council said they are seriously considering the proposal.

"It may be the right thing to do, but we haven't got to that step yet," said Mayor Clint Eastwood, whose candidacy buoyed the youth center, thanks to donations from merchants who reaped profits from the sale of campaign paraphernalia.

"Just because we're a town of approximately 300 children doesn't mean we shouldn't have programs," he said.

Councilman Bob Fischer said the city "sadly lacks a recreation system....I think it has some merit to it."

And Councilwoman Helen Arnold said, "If we have a recreation element (to be proposed at the May 6 council meeting) it would probably follow that the youth center should be part of that and receive city help to some extent."

Ron Faia, president of the youth center board, said the recent spate of contributions are appreciated, but considered a "one-time, shot in the arm."

Rather than drain the budget to a point where the center may have to close permanently, directors chose to lay off director Carole Colter and assistants Mary Jane Cheery and Heather Shoemaker. That move is effective at the end of June.

The center will be opened by temporary hourly help over the summer, which is generally a slow time for the facility anyway.

•

'THE GOAL here is to have some money on hand so that we don't totally close the youth center," Faia said.

Colter said that if the city can finance the payroll, maintenance and janitorial costs, then that would "take the pressure" off the board so that it can focus on long-range programing and fund raising.

Colter, who lives in Carmel Valley, said she agrees with the lay-off proposals and that she plans to go into real estate.

Ken White, a member of the recreation committee, said he welcomes the opportunity to help work out a cooperative venture between the city, school district and youth center.

"It's been a primary goal of ours to support and cooperate with the youth center," he said.

White pointed out that the center building actually is owned by the city and leased to the youth center for $1 per year under a contract that expires in 1989.

"The city has a stake in that building. We really ought to recognize that obligation," he said.

The youth center's financial problems began when a new board took over and opted to spend more than $20,000 on renovating the building.

The thought at the time was that the money could be recouped through fund raising at the Pebble Beach golf tournament (formerly the Crosby).

THE CARMEL Youth Center will save monies raised from the sale of On the Trail With Clint magazines to help start programs next fall. Magazine sales netted $3,000 for the youth center thanks to local efforts. Above are: (from left) Holly McFarland, of the Pine Cone, who provided photographs for the magazine; Bruce Roberts, Mayor Clint Eastwood, Merv Sutton, youth center director; Lisa Von Saltzman and Phyllis Howard. The magazine was put together by Roberts, Von Saltzman and Howard. The center also was the site of a recent joint student council meeting and barbeque for Carmel High and Carmel Middle schools. Barbecuing at left are: Tom Hawkins and Steve Roberts. (Top photo by Michael Gardner. Photo at right by Holly McFraland.)

Comet to Bay Day

WHAT DOES Halley's Comet have to do with Bay School? Nothing really except that Bay School was around — it was 31 years old to be exact — when the comet made its last appearance around here.

With that in mind the school decided to celebrate not only the return of the celestial light show, but the school itself, and are calling it "Comet to Bay Day," which takes place from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., Saturday, May 3 at the school, which is located one mile south of Rio Road on Highway 1.

The school will be transformed into a children's carnival, with games to be played and prizes to be won, as well as a raffle, silent auction, bake sale, crafts and plant sales, food booths and pony rides.

Any questions about Bay Day can be directed to Maureen Curtis at 624-6247.

MONTEREY COUNTY SYMPHONY GUILD SALAD LUNCHEON AND CONCERT

The Salad Luncheon and Concert Preview by the Monterey County Symphony Guild will be held Tuesday, April 29 at All Saints Episcipal Church, Dolores and Ninth Street in Carmel.

Maestro Clark E. Suttle will preview the May 4, 5 and 6 concerts, the last in the regular series for the season.

The Hospitality Committee of Ruth Barker, Nihla S. Knight and Dorothy Wick, ask guild members to please bring a salad sufficient to serve four.

The boutique headed by Charlotte Corbet will be open at 11 a.m. There will be a social hour at 11:30, luncheon at 12:30. Non-member guests welcome for a donation of $5. Wine served by the courtesy of The Monterey Vineyard.

RANCHERS' DAYS FUNDS DISTRIBUTED

Proceeds from the very successful 1985 Carmel Valley Ranchers' Days have recently been distributed to local non-profit organizations.

Those organizations receiving monies were: Carmel Valley Little League, Carmel Valley Community Center, Ventana Wilderness, Jamesburg School, Carmel Valley Parent Association, Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department, Mid Valley Volunteer Fire Department, and the Jamesburg Volunteer Fire Brigade.

The Carmel Valley Rodeo Association, sponsor of Ranchers' Days, has named its new officers and board of directors. They are: Kent Heneks, president; Tootie Truesdell, vice-president; Dr. Tim Heaston, treasurer; and Gayle Ward, secretary. Board members include Jim Hilden, Clem Savoldi, and Joe Zinani.

CARMEL WOMEN GO INSIDE SCOTLAND

William Stone, art teacher, watercolor artist and traveller, will present a slide lecture, "Inside Scotland" at 2 p.m. Monday, May 5 at the Carmel Woman's Club meeting at the clubhouse, Ninth and Dolores.

Stone is a past president and currently a director at the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, a member of the Carmel Art Association, and taught art at Carmel High School for 20

VALLEY WOMEN'S CLUB LUNCHEON

The Carmel Valley Women's Club's May luncheon will be held Wednesday, May 7, at The Hacienda, Carmel.

Social hour will begin at 11:30 a.m. with luncheon following at noon. There will also be an afternoon of card games.

For reservations please call Mrs. Helen Keene at 659-4283.

COLORFUL DAR LUNCHEON

A potluck luncheon of salads, breads and desserts soothed the hunger pangs of the members attending the Commodore Sloat Chapter, NSDAR, April 15 meeting at the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula.

Chairman was Mary Kay Coughlin assisted by general luncheon chairman Colleen Harris, Ann Erwin, Marilyn Owen, Florence Coughlin, Mary Coates and prospective members Lorraine Zahm and Josephine Flanagan.

Brilliant red and white matching gloxinias were placed on the round tables by Mary Lou Nielsen and Esther Lindsay, decorations chairmen.

Acting in the stead of Regent Fran Gooley, second vice-regent Clarice Kahr presided and introduced the guest speaker Dr. Allen E. Fuhs, who gave a most interested slide presentation on Halley's Comet to the 56 present. Fuhs told vignettes about the 1910 appearance and said the 1985-86 appearance is somewhat of a "fizzle" because of the comet's greater distance from earth this time. Last time the earth actually passed through the tail of the comet at one point and the glow surrounding the earth was comparable to the intensity of the Milky Way. However, "fizzle" or not he said that viewing the comet was still very interesting especially if one could use a telescope or field glasses, though it is still visible to the naked eye. The talk was very informative and useful for the members.

Proceeding with the business meeting Mrs. Kahr introduced First Vice-Regent Ann Konig who read a message from the NSDAR President General Sarah M. King, and national defense committee chairman Ruth Tully who read two articles by Mrs. Phyllis Schlafly, NSDAR National Defense Chairman.

Every month the chapter hears a "Mineral Minute" from the committee chairman Mrs. LaVerne Underwood. This month she said she found herself indebted to Mr. Cal Keator, federation director of the Carmel Gem and Mineral Society for his information on "Where Did California Come From?", which paper she read. Mrs. Alma Boardman was introduced as the new chairman of the name tag committee.

MONTEREY BAY SYMPHONY ASSOCIATION RECEPTION

The Monterey Bay Symphony Association and the Symphony Colleagues are hosting a reception for Lilian Kallir between 2 and 4 p.m. Sunday, May 4, at the Pebble Beach home of Dr. and Mrs. Sal Di Mercurio.

Miss Kallir will be the guest artist for the symphony's sixth concert series, in which she will perform the solo part of the Schumann A Minor Piano Concerto, Op. 54.

At the reception for her, she will also present a recital.

The reception, at which wine and hors d'oeuvres will be served, is for the benefit of the symphony, and a donation of $50 per person will be asked.

People who wish to attend are requested to phone the symphony office at 372-6276 for reservations and further information.

MPVS SPRING LUNCHEON SET

The Monterey Peninsula Country Club was chosen by the 125 hardworking members of the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services for their annual Spring Luncheon — the one occasion each year when they doff their red-and-white-striped aprons and just enjoy themselves. This year their pleasure was enhanced by a stunning show of designer fashions produced by Gerry's of Carmel Rancho.

ANN MARSHALL, left, and Beth Lombard, were two of the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services modeling fashions at the recent MPVS fashion show and luncheon featuring fashions from Gerry's.

Luncheon chairman Frances McLean was assisted in decorations by Mercedes Conley, tickets and programs by Josephine Owen, door prizes by Catherine Wilson and Linda Wright. Gerry's added to the excitement by donating gift certificates.

The table decorations of dainty pink parasols and flowers brought a breath of spring to the scene.

While the ladies dined, models strolled among the tables to the soft piano music of past president Jane Hardy. MPVS members modeling were: Donna Chenoweth, Beth Lombard, President Ann Marshall, Holly Morehouse, Annemarie

NEW OFFICERS FOR MADD

The Monterey County Chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving elected new officers for the 86-88 term.

Jonathan Price, an attorney with the county counsel's office, has been chosen president; Alice Moe, a homemaker, was re-elected as first vice president; Joe Donahue, a registered nurse at Salinas Valley Memorial Hospital, was chosen second vice president; Katie Stokes, a C.P.A. with the Monterey County Auditor's Office, was chosen as corresponding secretary; Bob Moore, an inspector with the Pebble Beach Community Services District, was chosen as treasurer; Deborah Loveless, an administrative assistant at Sun Street Center, was chosen as recording secretary.

"The chapter's primary goal for the new term is an increased awareness of the serious threat that drunken driving presents to our community," Price said. "MADD plans to establish vigorous court monitoring and victim assistance programs as well as expand a designated driver program throughout Monterey County. Our hope is to achieve these goals through increased community involvement and advocacy by our membership."

TEACHERS HONORED FOR EXCELLENCE

Three high school instructors and four college insructors have been nominated for the Fifth Annual Allen Griffin Awards for Excellence in Teaching given by the Community Foundation for Monterey County. They are: Wayne Cruzan, mathematics instructor at Monterey High School; Robert Walch, chairman of the English Department at Carmel High School; Lillian Griffiths, instructor of U.S. History and Government at Pacific Grove High School; Rocky Han, instructor of Korean at the Defense Language Institute; Dr. Gordon Latta, mathematics professor at the Naval Postgraduate School; Dr. Richard Kezirian, professor of history at Monterey Peninsula College; and Dr. Leslie Zambo, professor of accounting at Monterey Institute of International Studies.

Pickets in Carmel?

USUALLY, WHEN one thinks of pickets in Carmel, one thinks in terms of fences.

However, this time the reference is to pickets, as in labor dispute. A dispute, pickets and all, is currently in progress at the Cypress Inn on Lincoln Street.

The hotel was recently acquired from owner Carroll McKee by Cypress Inn Investors, a limited partnership based on the peninsula.

The general partner of Cypress Inn Investors is H.D.A. Capital Resources, Inc., composed of Ben Heinrich, Douglas Dusenbury, Richard Albers and Dennis Levett, according to attorney Dusenbury. The new owners took over Monday, April 21.

The dispute is over the firing — or not rehiring as the case may be — of eight employees with neither two weeks notice nor any union negotiations, according to Leonard O'Neill, chief executive officer of the Hotel Employees and Restaurant Employees Union Local 483. Some of the people have worked at Cypress Inn for 10 to 11 years, O'Neill said. The eight represented 70 percent of the inn's workforce, he said. Three employees were kept on.

The workers, most from housekeeping or the front desk, said they were interviewed Thursday, April 17 by the new manager David Wolfe. Sunday, April 20, they were told by front desk clerk Tom Rieml that they did not have a job. The new owners were only keeping three of McKee's employees.

Elsie Johnson, who worked at the Cypress Inn for six years as a maid, said she heard the new owners were taking over Monday, April 21. She said she had turned in an application and was interviewed Thursday.

That Sunday, Johnson said she was told she was no longer employed and was asked to inform the others who also were now without jobs. She added that it was her understanding that new hotel would be non-union with a payscale of $5.25 per hour and there would be no insurance benefits. She had been making $5.67 per hour. She is putting in applications to other establishments, she added, but has not yet been accepted.

"I have a four-year-old son to support," she said.

Mary Galloway, a maid for nine years, said she was interviewed by Wolfe and informed of her employment termination by Johnson. She was also told the hotel would be non-union and without insurance.

O'Neill said he sent a letter to the new owners on April 15 congratulating them on their purchase and requesting a meeting. Dusenbury, he said, returned a two-sentence letter back April 21 stating "Thank you for your letter April 15, 1986. We see no reason to meet with you at this time."

In a later interview, Dusenbury said that "basically, the agreement we had with Carroll McKee and the arrangement was that the prior owner would notify his employees of their termination.

"We told him that we had other hotel people from other operations that we wanted to bring in with us. What the former owner did as far as notifying them we do not know."

The union contract with McKee did not have a "successor clause," which would require that the hotel stay union, Dusenbury said.

Dusenbury added that the hotel is currently being remodeled and that they wanted to bring in a staff that would best fit in with the atmosphere and service philosophy they are trying to achieve.

O'Neill said the union would continue picketing throughout the week.

IN A RUSH

Architects around here seem to favor the older buildings. Not buildings that could be described as cute, but buildings where time, use and simplicity of style lend character to what otherwise would just be beams, boards and mortar.

On Junipero Avenue the building long ago vacated by San Francisco Federal Savings and Loan has those better charateristics. And, amazingly enough, it's acquiring an architect as a tenant.

Architect Paul Rush called the office his "hideaway," probably from the pressures and hustle and bustle of his office in San Francisco.

At its peak, Rush said his office there once had 28 people, but now only employs five. After 30-some years in the business, he said he is "winding down" the operation.

The office here in Carmel, Rush said, will be his to design in while the San Francisco office will house the production staff — draftsmen and spec writers.

Maybe Rush just likes to be close to his work. He said he's currently working on six condominiums for Ray Freschi, owner of San Francisco Federal building and the land around

ROUNDUP

Beginners' chess instruction offered

Chess instruction for beginners will be offered at Monterey Public Library the first Wednesday of each month beginning May 7 in the library community room. Tournaments will take place during the sessions, and a chess set will be awarded each month to the winner of the tournament.

The program, sponsored by Monterey Public Library and the Library League, will be conducted by Edward Stachowiak. Families are encouraged to join. There are no fees involved and all ages are welcome. Meeting hours are 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Singles' group will gather

New People/New Places, a non-profit community group, invites other single adults in their 30s and 40s to a potluck dinner and planning meeting to decide a social calendar of events for the coming month.

The group will meet at 6 p.m. Sunday, May 4 in the community room of The Crossroads, Rio Road off Highway 1, Carmel. For details, call 624-3898.

'Cricket in Times Square' shown

The Seaside Branch Library invites children to a free film, The Cricket in Times Square, based on George Selden's book.

The film will begin at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 7 at the library, 550 Harcourt Ave. Children under age five must be accompanied by an adult. For details, call 899-2055.

Poets will read from their works

The Wednesday, May 7 gathering of Cafe Poets will feature Adele Langendorf of Carmel and Carol Staudacher of Santa Cruz. The readings will begin at 7 p.m.

Cafe Poets meet each Wednesday at Portofino Cafe, 620 Lighthouse Ave. in Pacific Grove. Admission is $3. For details, call 373-0378.

'Loneliness and Love' discussed

Paul Brenner, author of Life is a Shared Creation, Health is a Question of Balance and Mi, a fairy tale, will address the Wednesday, May 7 gathering of the Monterey Peninsula Writers' Club.

Brenner, who counsels people with chronic or terminal illnesses, will discuss "Loneliness and Love."

The free program will be presented at 7:30 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church, 501 Eldorado, Monterey.

Guess who's coming to dinner?

Fleas. Lots of fleas. They're eating your pet alive. You know your pets have fleas when they itch and scratch. But, did you know, with fleas they may also have tapeworms, be anemic, susceptible to skin infection and allergic reactions? Worst of all, they can't tell you.

Discourage this unwanted guest. Routine use of medicated powders, sprays and shampoos will help, but you must deflea both your pet and your home, or the fleas will keep coming back. If your dog shows an allergic reaction—small bumps or scabs, redness, or dandruff-like scales—contact your veterinarian.

No dog deserves to play host to a greedy and ungrateful dinner guest.

The Monterey County SPCA has more information on how you can protect your pets. Call us.

it. Freschi plans to put the condominiums next to Rush's office. But Rush, a Prunedale resident, said he's just he's tired of fighting the traffic to the San Francisco Bay area.

Not that he doesn't like San Francisco. He should — much of his work is there. Some of Rush's credentials include being the architect for Campton Place and the remodeling jobs at the Claremont and St. Francis hotels.

DAPPER DANS

You'll have to excuse me if I don't know what I'm talking about here. I'm completely ignorant about men's clothing. It's what art is to some people — don't know a thing about it, but I know what I like. All the same, the words "buttondown collar" remain a mysterious and exotic description for me.

So when Thomas Testa said he and his partners, Maurice and Alain Himy, were opening a men's clothing store with upbeat, stylish clothes, I was worried. It's all right to be ignorant and try to describe something everyone else is completely flummoxed by too, but to do that with something everyone else knows about is a dangerous business.

The new store will replace Rowedder of Carmel, Patricia Rowedder's shoe store on the corner of Ocean Avenue and Monte Verde Street. Rowedder closed last week and such a madhouse you never have seen — unless you've witnessed an incredible shoe sale before. Feet, elbows, boxes, shoes and pantyhouse flying everywhere.

Women's shoes will be replaced by Impressions D'Italia, a full-line men's clothing store. It should open sometime in mid-May or a little later, Testa said.

Not just your basic shirt and tie outfit, but "upbeat" stylish clothing, Testa said, and everything from Italy.

Testa said that he and his partners have been looking around Carmel for "a few years" and felt that there was an unmet need for "a bit more stylish clothing" in the area. That was not to disparage the stores that are here now, Testa added, but while most offer fine quality they are in the more traditional styles.

This will be Testa's and his partner's third men's clothing store. In San Francisco, they own two stores on Union Street — Moda In and Milano Vice.

Milano Vice is what Testa called "upscale, push-up sleeve" style of clothing — a little more high style than what the Carmel store will offer, though there will be "some element" of that. The whole store won't be like that, he said.

Impressions D'Italia will have everything from coats, jackets and shirts to sweaters and suits. All accessories, even men's shoes, will also be available, Testa said.

"We'll have style and affordability," he added.

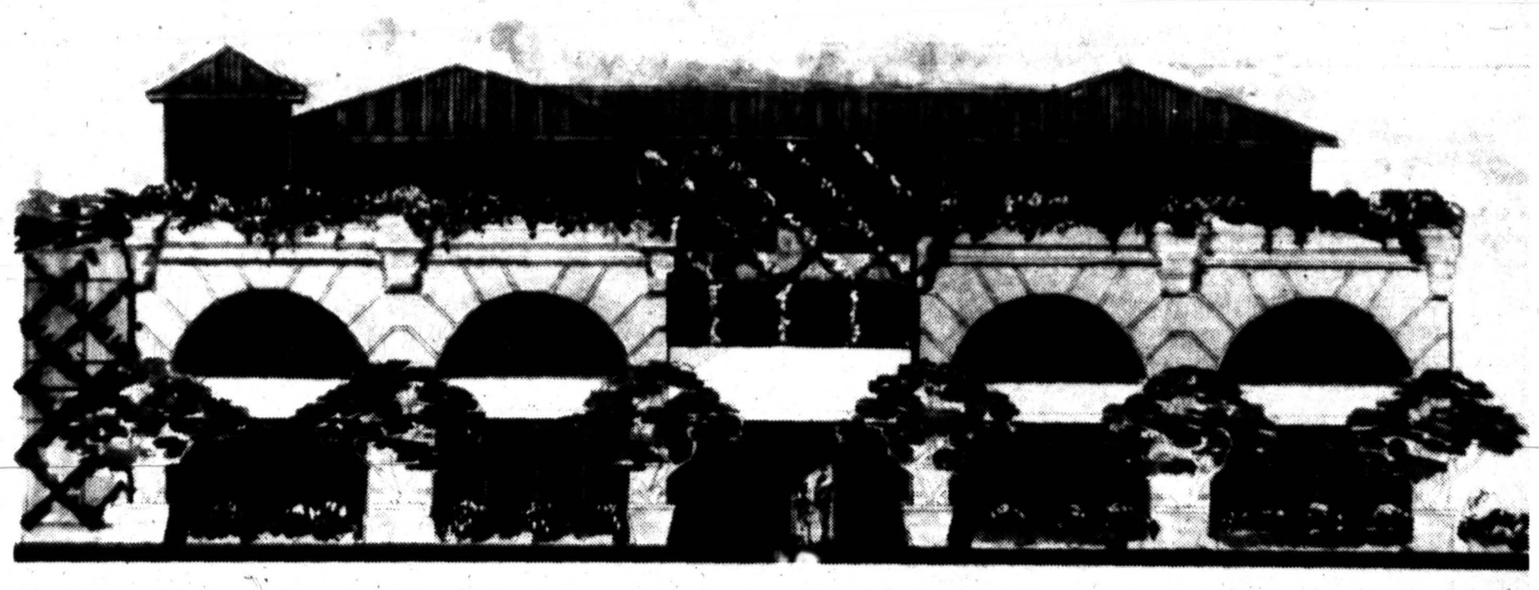
Everything's from Italy, he explained, because of the style, quality and workmanship that comes from that country. The fabrics will feature all-natural fibers.

Because men are not often as aware of how to accessorize and put together a wardrobe that coordinates, Testa said the store will do "concept selling." That means they will help put together entire ensembles or wardrobes. Not that you won't be able to buy a single shirt or sweater, but now you might be able to buy something it actually goes with.

Women are not completely left out. Testa said there will be Italian leathers and suede fashions for women.

Another extra Testa said the store will offer is full-line, year-round formal wear rental. It'll be a lot of work, he said, but they'll give it a try. There will be more than the ol' black-and-white available, too.

Later, they may try some men's fashion shows Testa said, and that's something I should go to, don't you think? Simply to learn, that is.



AN ARTIST'S rendition of two-story office complex planned by Craig McFarland on the corner of Rio Road and Via Nona Marie at the mouth of the Valley. McFarland said construction will start in about three or four months.

NOT THE CAR

Ferrari of Carmel won't be able to sell you transportation that cruises along at 100 miles per hour, but it can sell you something to wear while doing just that.

It's a jewelry store on San Carlos Street near the corner of Fifth Avenue. Linda Ferrari has purchased Rickys Jewelers (that's right, no possesive) from former owner Laura Rickbeil, who opened the shop last year.

Ferrari is replacing Rickbeil's merchandise with works by many local jewelry artists.

"It's wearable one-of-a-kind works of art and all handcrafted locally," Ferrari explained. "We have gold, silver, silk, cermanic, ivory — everything." There are also a few mirrors, vases and interior design pieces.

An artist herself, Ferrari said she and others in the shop will be doing a lot design work "for the individual buyer."

Working with Ferrari are Misha Adamovich and Jack Van Bebber, who used to own a Cannery Row store called Art Noveau.

Some of the artists whose work Ferrari said are offered in the shop include Joe Lazer, who creates ceramic calla lilies; Susan Tannehill, who paints with enamel; Ann Rowe's hand-painted silk scarves; Hal Playford, who creates abstract work with different colors of gold; gold worker Guiseppi from Carmel Valley; and Judy Bettencourt, abstract work in silver.

Ferrari said she is very proud that artist Malcom Moran is showing his bronze sculptures in the store. The space Ferrari of Carmel occupies, she said, was Moran's studio years ago.

Between the shop and Ferrari's other work, she will be a busy person. Right now she works for the Pacific Grove Adult School at Gateway Center of Monterey County, Inc.

RIO ROAD COMPLEX

Craig McFarland, developer of Cottage Row and McFarland Court in Carmel, said he will be starting construction on a two-story office complex with underground garage on the corner of Rio Road and Via Nona Marie in three or four months. Construction, McFarland said, will take approximately a year.

A description from Capital Growth Properties, McFarland's company, states that the building will have 20,000 rentable sq. ft. with "tailor-made" offices from 400 sq. ft. to "full floors of 10,000 sq. ft." Tenants on the first floor include Home Federal Savings and Loan, Ticor, City Corp and Century 21. The underground parking will provide 61

PINE WHISPERS

The Allen Griffin Teaching Awards were established in 1982 with the Community Foundation for Monterey County by a bequest from the late Col. Allen Griffin, a founder and former president of the foundation and for many years a community leader in education and other fields. By establishing this fund through the Community Foundation, Griffin intended to both reward and stimulate superior teaching. The Community Foundation presents two awards each year to outstanding classroom teachers nominated by secondary and collegiate schools on the peninsula.

Each nominee will receive a certificate of commendation and the two winners of the award will receive a separate plaque as well as a cash award of $1,000 each. Final selection and presentation of awards will take place in an outdoor ceremony on Thursday, May 8 beginning at 4:30 p.m. at the Old Whaling Station in the Heritage Harbor complex on Pacific Street, Monterey.

VALLEY NATIONAL BANK VICE-PRESIDENT TO ADDRESS AD CLUB

Eric T. Helgeland, vice-president of bank marketing and development for Household Financial Services, will address the monthly luncheon meeting of the Advertising Club of the Monterey Peninsula at noon, Thursday, May 1, at the Hyatt Regency hotel in Monterey.

5 The event is open to the public beginning with a no-host bar at 11:30 a.m. Reservations are $15 and may be made by calling KWAV radio at 649-0969.

TOR HOUSE GARDEN PARTY

The annual Robinson Jeffers Tor House Foundation garden party will be held Saturday, May 3 from noon to 4 p.m. at Tor House, 26304 Ocean View Ave., Carmel.

The English cottage-style garden, Jeffers' home and Hawk Tower will be open to the public.

Docents will be on duty in the house and tower and volunteers will be on hand to answer garden questions.

Admission is $7.50, which will include refreshments. Tickets may be purchased at the garden gate on Ocean View Avenue. All proceeds will be utilized for the continuing preservation of Tor House, Hawk Tower and the gardens. No children under 12.

For further information, please contact the foundation office at 624-1813.

VIOLET SOCIETY PLANT SALE

The African Violet Society of the Monterey Peninsula will hold its semi-annual plant sale and show May 3rd from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at The Crossroads, Rio Road and Highway 1, Carmel.

Large blooming plants as well as small starter plants will be offered for sale. Location of the event is between Safeway and Longs Drugs. For information, call Gertrude Bisnett at 372-5782.

JOAN FONTAINE TO POUR AT SCHOLARSHIP TEA

On Sunday, May 4, from 2 to 4 p.m., Academy Award-winning actress Joan Fontaine will pour tea at a special scholarship tea and gallery exhibit to be held at the studio of artist Norman Foster. Foster's seascapes and dramatic oceanic constructions will provide a unique garden and gallery setting for this elegant afternoon affair.

The proceeds will go to benefit the Grace Darcy Scholarship for Re-entry Women. This scholarship, awarded by the Professional Women's Network of the Monterey Peninsula, enables women returning to the work world to pay for much-needed education and training.

Reservations are $10 per person. Please call Coordinator Grace Darcy at 659-3933 to arrange reservations. Attendance is limited; early reservations are recommended.

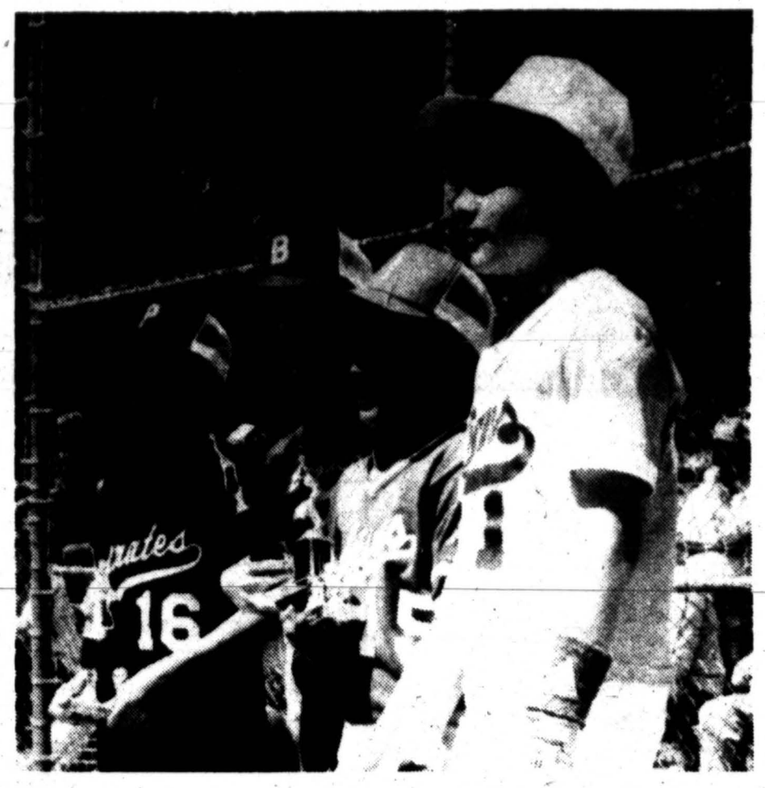
PLAYERS FROM each team were individually introduced to the crowd a la major league baseball's All-Star Game at the opening ceremonies of the Carmel Valley Little League season April 26. (Mac McDonald photos.)

FATHER AND son Richard and Danny Rosenthal of the Minor League Broncos saluted the flag during opening ceremonies.



BATATHON CHAMPS awarded their trophies at the opening ceremonies included, left to right: Pirates' Josie D'Aquanno (Minor League 8-9 years old); Broncos' Larz Randolph (Minor 10-12); Indians' Evie Plata (Major League 9-10); and Lions' Dillon Garrison (Major 11-12). Winners were judged on how far they hit the ball pitched from a pitching machine. The Batathon, in which players collect pledges, is one of the league's big fund raisers.

Assessment board seeks applicant

Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman is seeking a qualified applicant to serve on the Assessment Appeals Board.

The successful applicant must have a minimum of five years' professional experience in California as one of the following:

- A certified public cccountant or public accountant.
- A licensed real estate broker.
- An attorney.
- A property appraiser accredited by a nationally recognized professional organization, or a person who the nominating member of the board of supervisors has reason to believe is possessed of competent knowledge of property appraisal and taxation.

The Assessment Appeals Board meets two days each month in Salinas for a period of about seven months.

Persons who are interested and reside in the Fifth District should contact Strasser Kauffman's office at 1200 Aguajito Rd., Monterey, or call 649-6515.

The Fifth Supervisorial District includes the Aguajito, Skyline Forest, parts of Monterey and Pebble Beach, Carmel, Carmel Valley, Big Sur and the Toro areas of the county.

Slide removal continues on Hwy. 1

Twelve hours a day and seven days a week is the amount of time the contractor is working to remove the slide on Highway 1 in southern Monterey County, according to CalTrans spokesperson Eddie Devens.

Contractor Madonna Construction Company is presently using four large bulldozers to push slide material and dispose of it in Redwood Gulch, which is adjacent to the slide. Large outcroppings of rock have made it necessary to blast on some days.

The 102-inch-diameter culvert pipe which is also to be installed has been ordered and is expected to be delivered this week. Slide removal will be halted temporarily when the pipe is being installed.

Estimated time of opening the road to public traffic is still mid-June.

CARMEL VOICE

BY SAM SALERNO

From Russia to Big Sur

It's a crime how the Russians deprive their own people of the talents of the world's greatest performers. Why wasn't Vladimir Horowitz' performance in his fatherland not held in a larger arena or hall so music lovers could hear this master of the classics. Seems there was no mention but a small poster that he was returning to his birth place after 60 years to perform at the Bolshoi Theater in Moscow. Our gratitude to CBS and reporter Charles Kuralt for broadcasting this masterpiece. Hope you had your recorder running!

HERE AND THERE

Shell Fisher, whose gallery has been closed pending construction of Clint's new building, has been commissioned by the TV show Dynasty to do a series of collection plates, the first of which is already available to the public. His latest features the three main stars of Dynasty...Linda Evans, Joan Collins, and John Forsythe. His second plate will feature Linda Evans and baby Christina. Shell also designed the T-shirt for the Big Sur Marathon. He is a runner himself.

Harold Firstman takes a breather, along with this reporter, and his son Jeff, after two successful weeks of the Golf Clinic at Pebble Beach. Teaching pros were Ron Rhoads, host pro at the Riveria Country Club in Los Angeles, and John Geertsen, Jr., formerly of the Monterey Peninsula Country Club. Firstman also instructed. Participants came from all parts of the country and from Europe. The next clinic is scheduled for May and continues each month through November.

Who was the culprit who changed the sign at Friar Tuck's to read, "The Dog's Breath Inn?" Many visitors thought it was associated with The Hog's. Owner Greg Cellitti went along with the gag awhile and then changed the sign back to how it originally read.

ENOUGH IS ENOUGH

Speaking of milking something to death, rumor has it that Clint's attorneys may come down on all those who are capitalizing on his name for their own personal gain. The election is over and badges, T-shirts, etc., will have to meet with Clint's approval to be sold.

Rosine's (with city approval), hoping to open their restaurant in downtown Monterey this coming Saturday. Love the decor, but more importantly, the food that Rosine's dishes out. We hope they receive the same response as they have had in the Del Monte Center. It's been a four-month wait for this grand opening.

The Plaza Linda Restaurant in Carmel Valley will open a second restaurant...this one to be located in New Monterey. The Diaz family has operated Plaza Linda for many years. Their chili relleno is my favorite.

MEETING THE STARS

Judy Bowen, a tennis buff and wife of Don Bowen, still pinching herself after meeting Martina Navratilova at the Virginia Slims tournament in San Francisco. They met face to face in the Clift Hotel elevator. Martina was friendly even though she had lost her match the night before. Mayor Clint Eastwood made points with Judy when he videotaped a message for her children, Scott and Kim. Wake up, Judy, you're not dreaming!

WHAT IS WRONG

Bobby Clampett who was considered to be the heir apparent to the crown held by Jack Nicklaus hasn't lived up to his press release (and folks are beginning to wonder about his golf game). I've spoken with many of the touring pros and they think he should go back to the swing that made him the great amateur he was at BYU and the great pro for the first couple of years on the tour. Those who have witnessed him, including yours truly, feel he has flattened his swing too much. He may be taking lessons from Hank Haney who supposedly has turned Mark O'Meara's game around, but if you'll compare the swings, O'Meara's swing is not flat and Clampett's is. I think Bobby should return to Ben Doyle at Carmel Valley and get back on track. He has too much talent to be missing all those cuts on the tour. He has two things going for him...he is still young, and he has all the shots in his bag. Come on Bobby, get with it! Your loyal fans are waiting.

ALL THAT MONEY

Hear that Merv Griffin has sold his company to Coca Cola for 250 mil. Not bad for a former singer and piano player for Freddy Martin. He has also purchased lots of land in and around PGA West, outside of Palm Springs, near Indio. Remember Merv, "smell the roses." See you next week.

CARMEL YOUTH BASEBALL

BY MARY WALTER

Off to a great start

The Carmel Youth Baseball League's 1986 baseball season got off to a great start with the first week of play.

In the Bronco Division, after four games, Derek Rayne is 2-0, Carmel Valley Disposal and Pine Inn are 1-1, and La Playa is 0-2.

Derek Rayne won April 21 against La Playa, 11-5, despite the hot bats of La Playa's Willie Moore, Matt Travaille and Sean O'Rourke. Frank Melicia was the winning pitcher. Fine defensive plays were made by Derek Rayne's Alex Fremier and La Playa's Bain Smith. Derek Rayne won again on Saturday against Carmel Valley Disposal, 8-7.

Carmel Valley Disposal won 4-1 April 22 against Pine Inn. In a well-played game featuring a total of 25 strikeouts, pitcher Sky Feekes picked up the win, with the game-winning hit going to CVD's Carl Dauphine. Other leading hitters were Pine Inn's Mario Bertalucci and CVD's Brooks Juhring and Feekes.

Pine Inn took an 8-3 win over La Playa on Saturday, with Travis Smith, Brian Sarkin and Clas Brown on the mound. Smith and Brown also were leading hitters for Pine Inn, as was Damon Murphy. Matt Travaille turned in a strong pitching performance for La Playa.

The only game information available from the Mustang Division was Dick Bruhn's 9-5 win against County Mounties April 26. Alex Vorobiov was the winning pitcher, with Mike Palshaw, Casey Christenson and Adam Jaster leading hitters for Dick Bruhn.

This week's featured Pinto team is Bay Bikes, with players Brendan Allen, Matthew Allen, Ben Armbrust, Bodhi Garrett, David Keeble, Jody Lincoln, Erin Miller, Seamus O'Reilly, Siena Ramistella, Morgan Rogers, Cheyenne Stoney-Stevens, Quincy Struve and Shelby Wilson.

No game information was available for Minor Softball. Major Softball: on April 23, County Bank lost to Post 41, 12-11; on April 25, Monterey Peninsula Dental Group lost to P.G. Vixens, 16-2; on Saturday, County Bank lost to Marina, 10-7.

Wardrobe seminar planned

Carmel Adult School is sponsoring a personal image, closet and wardrobe planning seminar to be taught by modeling instructor Robin Schott, noon to 4 p.m., Saturday, May 10 in Room 16 at Sunset Center.

The seminar is $20 and may be the first is a series.

For registration and information, contact the Carmel Adult School at 624-3544.

Literacy tutors will be trained

Project Prepare, Salinas/Monterey County Libraries' Adult Literacy Program, will offer a free training workshop for tutors on Saturday, May 3 at the Seaside Public Library.

The workshop is a requirement for those who wish to tutor for the project. Participants will learn how to work with adult non-readers, and will offer a review of materials used in the program.

Salinas optometrist Corwyn Mosiman will be the guest speaker. Dr. Mosiman will discuss the relationship between reading difficulties and vision problems. Registration is required for the 2 to 5 p.m. workshop. For information or to register, call the Seaside Library or 758-7340.

Affordability a key in making it to college

By HOLLY McFARLAND

HOW ABOUT Stanford, University of California at Berkeley, California State University, Los Angeles, or the local junior college?

These higher education choices are just some of the aspirations of Carmel High School students caught in the middle of "college fever" these days. But the challenge that lurks ahead is not necessarily acceptance into the college of your choice based on grade point average, but a double negative — affordability.

Parents scared by the multi-digit tuitions and board packages of private and state colleges need not panic. A recent meeting led by Dan Mayers of Clocktower Financial Group addressed the issues of how to match college choice with affordability.

Mayers, a certified financial planner, drew on his 18 months of specialized study in the field of college financial planning to offer advice to a turnout of about 70 concerned peninsula parents at the Carmel High School gym April 22.

Sharpening the pencils and filling out the various financial aid forms both at state and federal level through grants, loans or scholarships is the first big step for planning conscious parents.

Planning for a four-year education could mean forking out a hefty $17,000 a year for the package at one of the country's most exclusive institutions, Stanford University. Obviously, planning in the early years, storing at least $1,000 or $2,000 from ages five and up, is a wise idea. Because setting aside a dowry of $68,000 (if your preference is in the league of Stanford University) will take financial planning along with knowledge of financial aid that is currently available, Mayers said.

"One of the things that I've learned over the last 18 months since I've become interested in specializing in this area is that millions of dollars in aid goes unclaimed and that our situation here locally, where we only had 27 people in our graduating class last year apply for aid, is kind of atrocious," said Bob Harr, CHS career education counselor who also presented information on college costs, scholarships and financial aid.

"So the great majority are able to apply for aid but don't apply," continued Harr. "Basically millions of dollars in aid goes unclaimed."

About $18 billion for 1986 and 1987 is earmarked for financial assistance, according to Harr.

Mayers indicates that planning early, mentioning that the best time is "when your wife is pregnant"; starting the accumulation process as early as possible; understanding the accumulation process as early as possible; and understanding the complex financial aid system.

Mayers is also providing Carmel residents forms that will better help them determine the category of need they are in, then runs the information through a special computer software package. It is provided free, but Mayers indicated a token donation to the CHS college career center would be appreciated.

Other essential pointers to know for parents that will mean the difference between the college of their choice are:

- Don't place money directly into son's or daughter's account because of the heavy tax penalties. Assets in the hands of the parents are taxed at a maximum of 12 percent. Assets in the hands of the student are automatically taxed at 35 percent.
- Plan on at least a minimum of four hours sorting through and completing the heavy paperwork for the basic Student Aid Application for California (SAAC) which begins the financial ball rolling.
- Have a system of collecting pay stubs, credit card paperwork, amortization of home mortgages and the like so that you are not waiting for the returns from your accountant. The bottom line is assessing your financial contribution way before you get the forms back from your tax accountant.
- List the most important college choice first in the section stating college preference; the first may most likely be the most expensive.
- Once acceptance into the college has been granted, then begin the negotiation process with the financial aid office at the particular college of your choice; even if aid has been refused, addressing and bargaining with them is still a possibility.

DAN MAYERS, a certified financial planner, offered expert advice to parents of college-bound Carmel High School students at a recent seminar. (Holly McFarland photo.)

"The important thing to know about the financial aid picture is that there are things which you can do to make your particular situation better or worse," said Mayers. "And filling out a financial aid form without knowing that there are municipal bonds, or IRAs or personal exemptions, or that you can deduct your own interest.

Both Harr and Mayers mentioned the exceptional opportunity that CHS students have to utilize the catalog library in the counseling center. The career center is a parent volunteer organization whose goal is to better inform CHS students of college information.

"CHS students now have at their fingertips questions as to what size of school, what kind of social activities, and the computer gives them specific lists of schools that meet those requirements," said Joyce Harr, who also talked briefly about the center to the parents.

Water agency leaders set to meet in Monterey

Representatives of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District and more than 1,500 other water agency leaders from throughout the state will gather in Monterey, May 7-9, to discuss vital issues concerning California's water resources during the 1986 Spring Conference of the Association of California Water Agencies.

Key speakers set to address the semi-annual conference at the Hyatt Regency Monterey include U.S. Rep. Richard Lehman, who will discuss H.R. 3182 which he introduced to authorize the $800 million Mid-Valley Canal Project as a unit of the federal Central Valley Project; Assemblyman Bill Jones (R-Fresno), who will discuss "Drinking Water Legislation"; state Sen. Jim Nielsen (R-Rohnert Park), a recognized leader on water issues, who will review California water issues; Dr. Bruce Ames, chairman of the Department of Biochemistry, University of California at Berkeley, who will discuss "Carcinogens, Anticarcinogens and Risk Assessment"; C. Dale Duvall, commissioner of the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation, who will address the general business session of the conference; Fred LaCosse, television talk show co-host of "AM-San Francisco," who will speak on television interviewing techniques; Mid-Pacific Regional Director David G. Houston, U.S. Bureau of Reclamation, and Department of Water Resources Director David N. Kennedy, who will be panelists on the Mid-Valley Canal session; and other political figures and water experts.

Discussion topics at conference sessions will include:

- Can California Afford Agriculture?
- Water Conservation and the Water Quality Bond Law of 1986 (AB 1982)
- Life with H.R. 3838
- Mid-Valley Canal Project
- Computer Modeling and the use of Computers in Distribution System Operations
- Challenges and Opportunities for Women in the Water Industry
- Proposition 51 — The Fair Responsibility Act or Deep Pockets
- Drinking Water Quality — Political, Regulatory and the Drinking Water Initiative
- How Toxic are Toxics?
- Legislative Issues Panel Focusing on Auburn Dam

The Association of California Water Agencies is composed of more than 300 water agencies in California responsible for delivering about 85 percent of the water distributed in the state for agricultural, domestic and industrial purposes.

Applicant sought for alcoholism board

Fourth District Supervisor Sam Karas is seeking an applicant to serve on Monterey County's Alcoholism Advisory Board. The successful applicant will fill an unexpired term which ends July 1 but can expect to be reappointed to a full three-year term in July.

The Alcoholism Advisory Board reviews and evaluates alcoholism program needs, services and facilities; reviews the alcohol program plans; and makes recommendations to the Alcohol Program Administrator and the board of supervisors. The board meets on the last Thursday of each month, varying its meeting place between Monterey and Salinas.

Interested applicants residing in the Fourth District are asked to contact Karas's office at 1200 Aguajito Rd., Monterey, or call 649-4141.

Planning commissioners will stay on...for now

By NANCY HILLS

CARMEL MAYOR CLINT Eastwood said he would not ask planning commissioners to resign before their terms expire, but there could be changes on the Carmel Planning Commission in the future.

Eastwood did not specify what those changes would be, or whether they would involve the two planning commissioners whose terms expire in May.

Eastwood has also placed a request to consider disbanding the Carmel Business License and Code Review Board on the May 6 city council meeting agenda.

Also up for discussion on that agenda are the positions of planning commissioners Gene Hammond and Arthur Mertens, whose terms expire this month. Both were appointed to the commission by former Mayor Charlotte Townsend and confirmed by the city council.

The mayor can choose to reappoint Hammond and Mertens or select new candidates to fill those positions. The Carmel City Council must agree by a simple majority to approve or reject the appointments.

Criticism of the planning commission — nominated by Townsend and approved by the council — was a focus of Eastwood's campaign. He charged that the planning commission was rude and unresponsive to both the residents and business community.

In an interview with the Carmel Pine Cone/Carmel Valley Outlook Eastwood said he was not ready to discuss the two appointments due in May. He added that he had not received any applications outside of the two current commissioners, though some people had expressed an interest in applying.

"There will be changes," Eastwood said, however, about the commission.

Despite speculation around town to the contrary, Eastwood said he will not ask any of the current planning commissioners to resign before their terms expire.

"Those rumors are not correct," he said. "There are changes coming up but we're not working in terms of people with unexpired terms."

Eastwood, however, said he is "looking to broaden the spectrum on the commission to get people involved in the city from all areas."

That includes people with backgrounds, such as architects, relevant to planning commission duties so "the council can refer to a commission with some sense of expertise."

"I definitely want the planning commission to be a more helpful body," he added.

The duties of the licensing board, Eastwood said, could be handled by staff. The board reviews and grants or denies new business licenses twice a month.

"I'm not a believer in cumbersome government. We are going to analyze whether to continue that board. It seems if the planning commission is efficient and the staff is set up for it, that it (the board) is unnecessary," Eastwood said.

HAMMOND, a retired exporter who moved to Carmel in 1972, said he has sent a letter to city hall stating he is interested in

Voter registration deadline is May 5

Deadline for voter registration for the upcoming June 3 statewide primary election in Monterey County is Monday, May 5.

Voters can obtain voter registration cards from libraries, city halls, Department of Motor Vehicles offices, fire stations, or by calling the Monterey County Election Department at 424-7621.

Here are some helpful reminders from Betty Bloomer, county registrar of voters:

- In order to become a registered voter a person must be 18 years of age, a U.S. citizen, not currently serving jail time or parole on conviction of a felony.
- A person, whenever they move, must register to vote prior to the deadline to register in order to be eligible to vote in any upcoming election.
- Eligible voters will be receiving a sample ballot beginning the first week of May. Absentee ballots will be made available on request starting May 5. To request an absentee ballot a voter may use the form provided in the sample ballot booklet.
- Ballots will be counted June 3 at the Monterey County Election Department, 201 Main St., Salinas. The counting of the ballots is open to the public.
- For more information call the county election department at 424-7621.

continuing his service as a planning commissioner.

However, Hammond said, "I have the feeling with the direction this new council is going they won't want to take me with them.

"It has been my impression that one of the problems (with the former city government) for people who ran against the mayor was the planning commission."

Hammond pointed out that he was the commissioner who developed the argument on water usage that eventually resulted in denial of an ice cream parlor last year. That denial was also a point of criticism by Eastwood during the election campaign.

Hammond said "the primary duty of the planning commission is to maintain and enforce the general plan."

"Under state law, a city must have a general plan that includes but is not exclusive to certain elements such as land use, circulation, housing, etc. Once adopted, all (city) ordinances must be brought in line with the intent of the plan."

Reviewing those ordinances is one of the major functions of the planning commission, Hammond said. The commission must also recommend changes in the plan as the application of its provisions reveal undersirable results, restrictions or loopholes.

However, until those ordinances are changed by the city council, it is the duty of the planning commission to adhere to the law, Hammond said.

Of the criticism leveled at the commission recently, Hammond said some of that is to be expected.

"We are the 'bad guys' if we turn somebody down because the code instructs us to. It's not easy to get mad at a piece of paper, so they get mad at us," he said. "When the new code was adopted there was, in turn, a lot of rezoning and tightening of restrictions. Many people felt we had changed things when actually it was the general plan — and we should support it."

Hammond said he served on the committee to develop the plan before being appointed to the planning commission in 1982.

"I am quite content with the general philosophy of it and its goals and policies. Things over time may be modified but I think overall it is a very valid, workable document and would hope that it wouldn't be changed very much," he said.

"One of the things I worry about is having a five-person council with three new members — none of which has any experience in city government before," Hammond said.

He added he "didn't question the sincerity of any of the three people," but hoped they would not "start fooling around with the general plan until they understand the significance of what they do."

•

MERTENS, a resident of Carmel for 10 years and retired from the field of marketing, is also interested in staying on as a planning commissioner.

"I think I would like to be reappointed," he said. "I haven't heard from anyone."

"The development of a solution to the problems of Carmel shifting more and more into a tourist community just interests me," he said of his reasons for wanting to stay on the planning commission.

Mertens said he and his wife live on Ocean Avenue and in just a "matter of less than two years, I could see a change in the volume and variety of people going up and down."

The general plan, Mertens said, is a "pretty good blueprint" and the function of the commission "in the book" is to develop that plan, keep it up to date and see that it is enforced.

Of the criticism of the commission, Mertens said it was hard for him to judge its accuracy when sitting on the board.

"With so many people in the community reacting negatively there must be a reason (for the complaints) — right or wrong," he added. "I think it's refreshing to hear any kind of criticism and I think it will have a good effect. Everybody needs it once in awhile."

He said he would believe that even if he is not reappointed.

"There seemed to be an enormous amount of criticism that maybe we were not aware of (before)," he said.

"We all have the same objective," Mertens said. "To see what we can save of a really wonderful community."

The secret to energy savings

Thermostop is a special coating, a Hunter Douglas exclusive. It can turn a horizontal blind into an energy-saving device. The Thermostop finish actually stops the metal in the blind slat from radiating as much heat as a normal coating would, so each slat acts as an energy barrier.

In the summer, Hunter Douglas Thermostop Blinds keep the heat out. In the winter, they keep heat in.

Highway Task Force asks for deletion of gate

THE HOLMAN Highway Task Force has asked the County of Monterey and the Pebble Beach Co. to negotiate deleting a fifth gate into Pebble Beach for traffic and safety reasons.

At its meeting April 28 task force representatives agreed that a proposed fifth gate at Pebble Beach — one of the conditions for approval of the Spanish Bay resort project — should be abandoned. However, Judith Brown, Pebble Beach Co. representative, was not sure whether that meant the plan should be scrapped forever or just be delayed. She did agree to meet with Fourth District Supervisor Sam Karas, the county representative, to negotiate the possible deletion of the gate.

Supervisors and the California Coastal Commission would have to approve any action concerning the gate.

Although not all task force members were present and not all members there had submitted a list of priorities of what should be done to improve Highway 68, the task force went ahead with its request to abandon the gate. No formal action was taken.

The City of Carmel, which had previously refused to join the task force, was represented for the first time on the group. Planning Director Diane White and newly-elected Councilwoman Elinor Laiolo attended, but did not join in on the discussions. The new Carmel City Council has not yet had a chance to determine its position on possible improvements to Holman Highway.

The recommendation to delete the gate came out of a March 27 task force-sponsored workshop in which 150 community leaders and public officials determined that the first priority in improving Holman Highway was to abandon the fifth gate at Haul Road.

Pebble Beach Co. had allocated $396,000 to build a signalized intersection at Haul Road and Highway 68 as part of its Spanish Bay permit. Workshop participants, however, deemed that the gate would create a traffic and safety hazard on an already heavily-used highway and recommended that it be abandoned.

Another option — to put a "cloverleaf" interchange there — was considered to be too expensive, estimated to be more than $2 million.

Karas said he would "like to see us totally eliminate the gate," but task force chairman and Pacific Grove City Councilwoman Susan Whitman tempered here remarks.

"Pacific Grove is concerned about the gate in its current configuration," she said. "We don't want to cut off any option, but we're not in favor of the present configuration."

Jim Hughes, Pacific Grove councilman, added: "The money that is going to be spent for a fifth gate may be better spent improving Highway 68."

However, Whitman said — with Brown concurring — that it would be unfair for Pebble Beach Co. to put the $396,000 into improvements elsewhere now and then be asked later to put a fifth gate into Pebble Beach.

Brown indicated that the company already is planning to make improvements at the Carmel Hill gate — one of the top priorities identified at the workshop. She added that any major improvements — such as improving the intersection of Highway 1 and Holman Highway — would have to be undertaken as a joint venture, possibly with CalTrans.

Other priorities coming out of the workshop included improving the Pebble Beach gate at Carmel Hill, adding passing lanes eastbound on Highway 68, adding a lane leading from Highway 1 to the Community Hospital and encouraging ridesharing and use of mass transit programs.

The next meeting of the task force is slated for Monday, May 19 at 3:30 p.m. at Pacific Grove City Hall.

No T-shirt this time

LOS ANGELES Mayor Tom Bradley made a campaign swing through the Monterey Peninsula last week and guess who was out to meet him? Yes, that's Paul Laub, T-shirt mogul of Carmel, on the far left. Laub chatted briefly with Bradley about toxic waste and offshore oil drilling. But Bradley, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, failed to convince Laub to vote for him. No, Laub did not present Bradley with a "Clint Eastwood for Mayor" T-shirt. That's Robert Franco, Del Rey Oaks mayor and Coastal Commissioner, in the middle. (Holly McFarland photo.)

Rippling River to get bus service

Monterey-Salinas Transit announced that bus service has been extended to the Rippling River Housing Complex in Carmel Valley.

Rippling River is a low-income housing complex for physically handicapped adults capable of independent living. There are currently 84 adults living at the county-operated complex, 16 of whom are confined to wheelchairs. Only advanced design buses with wheelchair lifts will be used on the trips serving Rippling River.

Buses will depart from the new bus stop in front of Rippling River daily at 8:30 a.m., 11:30 a.m., 2:30 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. via Line 4-Monterey. Return service from the Monterey Transit Plaza leaves the plaza at 7:45 a.m., 10:45 a.m., 1:45 p.m. and 4:45 p.m. Existing service to and from Carmel Valley will not be affected by this extension of Line 4-Carmel Valley.

According to Frank J. Lichtanski, general manager, "Extending service to Rippling River makes very good sense to assist in meeting the goal of promoting independent living for Rippling River. Mobility is a key to independent living."

MST has completed an on-site transit orientation for Rippling River residents and hopes that the extension of service will be well-utilized. Residents who are confined to wheelchairs and wish to use a wheelchair lift-equipped bus for their trip should call Monterey-Salinas Transit at 899-2555 to reserve space.

OBITUARIES

Lannis A. Parker

Cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea for Lannis Alvin Parker of Hacienda Carmel, a retired Navy captain, who died April 9 at Carmel Convalescent Hospital. He was 93.

Born Nov. 26, 1892 in Massac County, Ill., he was a resident of Hacienda Carmel since 1970, moving here from Mill Valley.

After two years at the University of Illinois, he enlisted in the Navy as a seaman and served on 17 ships and in seven shore stations. He reached the rating of chief petty officer before being commissioned as an ensign during World War I. His last active duty service was command of a division of attack transports which landed the 1st Cavalry for the occupation of Tokyo, and a few weeks later the 42nd Division at the Kure Navy Yard. He retired from the Navy in 1946.

Survivors include two daughters, Roberta Rugg of Rochester, N.Y., and Mary Parker Grady of Prescott, Ariz., seven grandchildren, nine great grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

At his request, no services were planned. Ashes will be scattered at sea, with the Paul Mortuary in charge of arrangements.

Jean Clark Brown

Cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea in Pacific Grove for Jean Clarke Brown, a resident of Carmel for the past 12 years, who died April 12 at Beverly Manor Convalescent Hospital. She was 75.

Born July 23, 1910 in Berkeley, she moved to Carmel from her home in Stockton in 1974.

Survivors included her husband, Detlef (who died one day later, April 13); a daughter, Mary Martha Waltz of Novato; a son, John G. of Hillsborough; a brother, Fred D. Clarke of Silverado, and two grandchildren.

At her request, no services were planned. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Detlef Brown

Cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea in Pacific Grove for Detlef Charles Brown of Carmel who apparently took his own life April 13. His wife, Jean, died April 12.

Born July 16, 1908 in Stockton, he moved to Carmel in 1974 on his retirement as a financial investor.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Geoffrey C. Dear

Memorial services took place April 19 at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea for Geoffrey Charles Dear, a resident of Pebble Beach for 37 years, who died April 16 at Community Hospital. He was 83.

Born Aug. 20, 1902 in Surrey, England, and known as George, he was in the oil business for 25 years from 1928 to 1949, starting with the Vacuum Oil Co. (later to become the Socony-Vacuum Oil Co. and Standard-Vacuum Oil Co. of New York).

He worked as a manager in Japan and Manchuria, and traveled throughout the Far East on business.

During World War II he served with the British Aviation Petroleum Products Allocation Committee in Washington, D.C., assigned to the British government's Ministry of Fuel and Power.

Following the war, he worked in Nigeria and Malaya until his retirement to Pebble Beach in 1949.

He was an avid cricket player during his overseas career both before and after the war. He and his wife, Mildred, operated Mildred Dear Real Estate in Carmel from 1952 to 1968.

He was a lifetime member of the Lions Club and worked with the Blind Service Center in Pacific Grove, and was a former assistant secretary and historian for the Pebble Branch of Seniors in Retirement (SIRS).

In addition to his wife, he is survived by many nieces, nephews and cousins in the United States and Great Britain.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

OBITUARIES

Margaret W. Barnes

Private cremation has taken place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea for Dr. Margaret Warren Barnes, a Carmel resident for 37 years and a retired osteopath, who died April 14 at Community Hospital. She was 77.

Born June 17, 1908 in Waltham, Mass., she had been a practicing physician for more than 50 years and had lived in Carmel since 1949, last making her home at Hacienda Carmel.

She graduated from Wellesley College in 1931 and from the Chicago College of Osteopathy in 1936.

She was a member of the Osteopathic Association and the Monterey Wellesley Club, taught first aid at the Carmel chapter of the American Red Cross, and for 20 years was national secretary and editor of the American Academy of Applied Osteopathy.

She is survived by several cousins.

Contributions in her memory are preferred to the American Academy of Osteopathy Inc., P.O. Box 750, Newark, Ohio 43055.

Timothy M. Ryan

A prayer service took place April 13, and a Mass took place April 14, both at St. Therese Church in Fresno, for Timothy Michael Ryan of Pebble Beach, who died April 11 in an automobile accident. He was 19.

Born Dec. 6, 1966, a member of a fourth-generation Fresno family, he attended St. Anthony's Grammar School in Fresno and graduated from Bullard High School in Fresno in 1985. He was a varsity football and baseball player and president of the Bullard Ski Club. At the time of his death, he was a student at Cuesta College near San Luis Obispo.

Survivors include his parents, Mayo and Karlene Ryan of Pebble Beach; two brothers, Mayo Patrick Ryan and Mark Ryan, both of Pebble Beach; a sister, Tara Ryan of Pebble Beach; grandparents, Karl Lowe of Pacific Grove; Mrs. M.J. Ryan Sr. and Mrs. Darlene Low, both of Fresno.

Entombment took place in St. Peter's Cemetery in Fresno.

The family suggests memorial contributions to Poverello House, 412 F Street, Fresno, California 93706.

Jaye Kinion

Memorial services took place April 13 in the chapel at Robert Louis Stevenson School for Jaye Theresa Kinion, a longtime resident of the Monterey Peninsula, who died April 8 at her home in Carmel. She was 31.

Born March 21, 1955 in Oakland, she was a graduate of Serra School at Carmel Mission, Carmel High School and Monterey Peninsula College.

An area resident since 1957, she was employed for the past seven years at Canterbury Woods in Pacific Grove.

Survivors include her parents, Ambrose and Eleanor Kinion of Carmel; a son, Brendan of Carmel; two brothers, Terry and Todd of Carmel; four sisters, JoAnn Davis of Columbus, Ohio, Judith Nail of Salinas and Janice Barlow of Napa; and several nieces and nephews.

The Mission Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the American Heart Association.

Thomas L. Doyle Jr.

A memorial service will take place in San Francisco for Thomas L. Doyle Jr. of Carmel Valley, a resident of the Monterey Peninsula for six years, who died April 10 at the Monterey Pines Skilled Nursing Facility. He was 63.

Survivors include his wife, Barbara; daughter, Kathleen Storm of San Francisco; son, Thomas III of Richmond; sisters, Mildred Lauterwasser of Boulder Creek and Elizabeth Yaeger of Los Altos.

Milton Mayer

Memorial services were pending for Milton S. Mayer, noted writer, educator and civil rights fighter, who died April 20 at his home in Carmel. He was 77.

Born Aug. 24, 1908 in Chicago, he studied at the University of Chicago from 1925 to 1928 before going to work as a newsman. He wrote first for the Associated Press, then the Chicago Evening Post and later the Chicago American.

He quit the business in 1937 and went on to teach social thought at the University of Chicago until 1948. The following three years he served as academic director for the Great Books Foundation and as a visiting professor at William Penn College. He then went to live and teach in postwar Germany and wrote a book, "They Thought They Were Free: The Germans 1933-1945."

Winner of both the George Polk Memorial Award and the Benjamin Franklin Citation for Journalism, he was the author of several other books, including "The Revolution in Education," written in 1958 with Mortimer Adler, and "The Art of the Impossible: A Study of the Czech Resistance," written in 1969, as well as collections of essays on subjects including religion, government and education.

He had just completed writing an extensive biography of the late Robert Maynard Hutchins, who was president of the University of Chicago, with whom he had been a close friend and associate for 50 years.

He received several honorary doctorates during his lifetime. In 1979, he was honored by the Monterey chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union as the recipient of its third annual Ralph Atkinson Civil Liberties Award.

Survivors include his wife, Jane Stoddard Mayer; two sons, Rock Scully of Lake Tahoe; Richard Scully of San Francisco; two daughters, Julie Vognar of Berkeley and Amanda Mayer Stinchecum of Brooklyn, N.Y., and three grandchildren.

The family suggests memorial contributions to civil rights and peace organizations, or to the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

As an older American, you've seen in your lifespan the most dramatic period in the world's history — world wars and depressions, horsedrawn carriages and space shuttles. Why not record your life and your impressions of those events in an autobiography? Researchers at the University of Southern California's Andrus Gerontology Center have found that preparing an autobiography is as rewarding and interesting for the person who writes it as it is for the grandchildren or friends who might read it.

MUSIC MATTERS

Luis Tetrazzini, during her recent appearance in San Francisco, announced that she was proud to be fat. She claims that olive oil not only tastes good but is good for the muscles of the throat, adding to the ease of tonal production.

"A perfect physical condition is responsible for happy and joyous sprits," she says, "when you are happy you sing well. You cannot by happy and contented and at the same time stint yourself in diet. Think of trying to go through Lucia or Rigoletto on a luncheon of lettuce and a glass of lemonade. It could never be done."

TROUT SEASON OPENS WITH MANY ANGLERS

Trout will be the chief item on the menus of many Carmel tables tonight. Every year on May 1 there is a wild scramble for the streams and today was no exception.

Early this morning before dawn the headlights of cars could be seen pointed towards the river and creeks down the coast. Fishing will not be so good for a few days, the experts predict, but many good catches were being made today, it was reported.

CARMEL LITTLE LEAGUE PLAY OPENS

With all six Carmel Little League teams ready for action, the popular baseball circuit gets underway Saturday morning with an imposing ceremony preceding the opening game. Pre-game action will feature presentation of trophies for last year's winners in both the Little League and the Farm Team League. For the House That Jack Built, Don Sands will award a permanent trophy to Art Carpenter's Pilot Market, 1960 Little League Champions. Francis Sparolini will honor the Little Sparrows with a handsome trophy designating them the 1960 Farm League Champs.

TRANSIENT LAW TAKES EFFECT TODAY

The ordinance approved in January by the Carmel City Council that bans rentals of 30 days or less goes into effect today.

City Administrator Doug Peterson said enforcement will begin immediately.

Peterson said he notified both the Monterey County and Carmel boards of realtors of the effective date of the ordinance prohibiting short-term rental of homes in the city.

The law makes it illegal also to advertise for the so-called "transient rentals."

Applicants sought for alcoholism board

Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman is inviting applicants to serve on Monterey County's Alcoholism Advisory Board.

This board reviews and evaluates alcoholism program needs, services and facilities; they review the alcohol program plans and make recommendations to the Alcohol Program Administrator and the Monterey County Board of Supervisors.

The board meets on the last Thursday of each month, varying their meeting places between Monterey and Salinas.

Interested applicants residing in the Fifth District are asked to contact Supervisor Strasser Kauffman's office at 1200 Aguajito Rd., Monterey, or call 649-6515.

The Fifth Supervisorial District includes Aguajito, Skyline Forest, parts of Monterey and Pebble Beach, Carmel, Carmel Valley, Big Sur and the Toro areas of the county.

Gentlemen of rugby return to Pebble Beach

THE NATION'S premier amateur rugby clubs and collegiate teams will compete in the seventh annual Michelob National Collegiate Rugby Championships and the 28th annual Pebble Beach Rugby Classic, Saturday and Sunday, May 3-4 at Collins Field in Pebble Beach.

The two tournaments are organized under the United States Amateur Rugby Football Union (USARFU). The weekend event will benefit local charities, community-wide projects and Northern California Youth Rugby.

The Classic, formerly known as the Monterey Invitational, recognized as America's oldest tournament, will feature 32 of the finest teams from around the country. Highlighting the field will be the Old Blues Rugby Club of Berkeley, the San Jose Seahawks, the BATS (Bay Area Touring Sides), the Old Mission Beach Athletic Club from San Diego, the Oklahoma University of Old Boys, Palmer College of Chiropractics and the Laie Rhinos of Honolulu. Also joining the field will be the Blackheath Rugby Club of Kent, England, the world's oldest club, founded 128 years ago.

For the second consecutive year, an added attraction in the finals of the Michelob National Collegiate Rugby Championships will pit teams from the East, Midwest, West and Pacific Coast in a round robin tournament to determine the national champion. The defending champion is the University of California at Berkeley.

BOTH COLLEGIATE and invitational team rugby will be played during weekend championships scheduled at Collins Field in Pebble Beach. Rugby tickets are $6 per day or $10 for the weekend, and can be purchased at the field or at the Highway 1/17 Mile Drive entrance to Pebble Beach.

The history of the tournament dates back to 1959 when Paul "Boomer" Andrew, a California football alumnus, brought rugby to central California to decide a northern and southern state playoff. Eleven teams turned out the next year; the entry list has steadily grown and now includes 32 teams.

Presenting the trophies to this year's winners will be Dr. Williams "Lefty" Roger, 82, of Pebble Beach, a member of the winning United States Olympic Rugby Team in 1924, the last year the sport was recognized as an official Olympic event.

The invitational tournament will feature play on Saturday, beginning at 7:30 a.m., and on Sunday, beginning at 8:30 a.m. Each team will play four games on Saturday and one on Sunday. Semi-finals are scheduled for 11:10 a.m. on Sunday and the finals are scheduled for 2:15 p.m.

The collegiate tournament will feature two games on Saturday at 12:10 p.m. and 1:45 p.m. On Sunday, semi-finals are scheduled for 9:40 a.m. and the championship will take place at 12:30 p.m. Each team will play four games over the two-day period.

Tickets can be purchased each day of the tournament at the Highway 1/17 Mile Drive gate entrance to Pebble Beach, as well as at Collins Field. Prices are $6 per day or $10 for the weekend.

New season of racing action opens at Seca

THE 29TH SEASON at Laguna Seca Raceway opens Saturday and Sunday, May 3-4, with the 23rd Annual Nissan Monterey Triple Crown. Feature of the weekend will be the Stroh's 300 for Camel Grand Prix cars.

The Camel Grand Prix machines are the world's fastest prototype sports cars and a stellar field of 24 cars has entered thus far. Headlining that entry is defending Laguna Seca winner Al Holbert, this year teamed with Derek Bell, in a Porsche 962.

Another duo scheduled for competition over the 300 kilometer main event distance is Sarel van der Merwe and Doc Bundy in the new Corvette Prototype. The Corvette will be making its Northern California debut at Laguna Seca.

Along with the top drivers, including Tom Gloy of Pacheco, Bob Lobenberg of Emeryville and Bob Earl of Larkspur, there are many makes of cars. These include the Mustang Probes, driven by Lyn St. James/Pete Halsmer and Gloy teamed with Klaus Ludwig. Jaguar will be well represented by Bob Tullius and Chip Robinson and the team of Brian Redman and Hurley Haywood.

Elliott Forbes-Robinson and Don Devendorf will drive for Nissan. Lobenberg, teamed with Ken Madren, is in a Buick Hawk and another Buick Hawk from the Conte Racing stable will be handled by John Paul Jr. and Whitney Ganz.

Earl, meanwhile, will be driving a Pontiac Fiero. Other engines in use will include Oldsmobile and Mazda and chassis will be provided by Tiga, Lola, Argo, March, Royale and Alba.

Support events for the weekend number four. They include the SPI 100 for Camel GTO/GTU cars; the Champion Spark Plug Challenge, featuring all front-wheel drive sedans; the Jim Russell Pro Series and the West Coast Atlantic Racing (WCAR) Series. The latter two classes are open-wheel, single-seat vehicles.

Chamber musicians audition during 15th local competitive

THE 15TH ANNUAL Carmel Chamber Music Competition will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday, May 3. Winners of the competition will perform in the awards concert at 3 p.m. Sunday, May 4. Both events will take place in Sunset Theater, San Carlos and Ninth, Carmel, and are sponsored by the Chamber Music Society of the Monterey Peninsula.

The Carmel Chamber Music Competition is a national competition and this year it gathered 13 applicants from university music departments and conservatories. Of these ensembles eight were selected to compete for the awards in the Saturday auditions: four string quartets, one piano trio and three wind quintets.

Four awards are available this year. Two first awards of $2,000 each, one for strings, with or without keyboard or woodwind, is made possible by two anonymous donors who are members of the society. The other first award for woodwinds or brass is made possible by donations by members of the society and gifts from the City of Carmel and the AT&T (formerly Bing Crosby) Youth Fund. The second award is the $1,500 Florence Allen Award, and the third is the $1,000 W. Frederick Schaad Award.

Winning an award is difficult and demonstrates a high level of musical achievement. A two-tier judging procedure is used. Applicants must be under 26 years of age and submit a recording of their performance of two contrasting compositions. A screening committee of five local musicians, using the tape recordings, selects the applicants who are then invited to compete before five judges. The winners are announced at the end of the Saturday auditions and will perform at the awards concert on Sunday.

Members of the screening committee who judged the 13 tapes were David Hagemeyer, committee chairman, a violist, violinist and chamber musician; John Erickson, violinist and member of the M.P.C. Music Department faculty; Katie-Clare Mazzeo, pianist and harpsichordist, member of the Santa Catalina faculty; Sue Amon, clarinet, performer and judge for reed instruments; and Carl Christensen, trumpet, performer and member of the Hartnell College faculty.

Following are the judges for Saturday's competition:

Sven Reher, judge coordinator, is a violist and composer who received his early music education at the Berlin Hochschule fur Musik. Continuing at UCLA, he studied with

AL HOLBERT, defending winner of the Nissan Monterey Triple Crown to be run Saturday and Sunday at Laguna Seca Raceway, is shown here in action from last year's event. Tor House opens for garden party

THE CARMEL POINT home and gardens of poet Robinson Jeffers will be open for the annual Tor House Foundation garden party, scheduled noon to 4 p.m. Saturday, May 3.

Docents will be on duty in the house and tower to answer visitors' questions, and volunteers will answer questions about the English cottage-style garden.

Built in 1919, Tor House is located at 25304 Ocean View Ave. near Carmel Point. Jeffers worked with a stonemason to build the house from granite boulders taken from the seashore. In 1924, he built the adjacent Hawk Tower for his wife, Una. The home served as inspiration for several of Jeffers' poems. He died in 1962. His wife succumbed in 1950.

Admission to the garden party is $7.50, which will include refreshments.

Tickets may be purchased at the garden gate on Ocean View Avenue. All proceeds will be utilized for the continuing preservation of Tor House, Hawk Tower and the gardens. Children under 12 cannot be accommodated.

The Robinson Jeffers Tor House Foundation is affiliated with the National Trust for Historic Preservation. For more information, call the foundation office, 624-1813.

THEATER REVIEW

BY JOANNE TENENBAUM

Awake at the wheel of life

YOU CAN'T TAKE IT with You, a 1937 Pulitzer prize-winning play by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, opened last weekend at Monterey's Wharf Theater.

This daffy, endearing comedy has something for everybody. Mortified by the eccentricities of your family? Watch how Alice, the conventional ingenue, struggles to honor her family loyalty and impress her fiancee's Park Avenue parents at the same time. Feeling hostile about Form 1040? Listen up for Grandpa's creative solution to paying the federal income tax. Sick of a life that is all work and no play? Then enter the dotty Sycamore household where everyone is awake at the wheel of life, and where fun is a routine occurrence.

This production of You Can't Take It With You marks the directing debut of peninsula actor and set designer Larry Ayo. You Can't Take It With You is an ambitious first attempt, with nonstop action in a crowded single setting that requires careful blocking and coordination of a fairly large cast doing unusual things in a living/dining room. Ayo succeeds very well in managing the sometimes manic action, and the cluttered set evokes very well the multitudinous hobbies of the frabjous Sycamores.

Penelope Sycamore (Gina Welch) bats out one play after another on an ancient typewriter while her married daughter Essie (Garyth Tyler) flutters through the rooms, flapping like a goose in her clumsy attempts to practice ballet. Meanwhile, Essie's husband Ed (Jonathan Seydel) reprints maxims from a volume of Trotsky someone left behind ("God is the state. The state is God.") which he tucks into boxes of Essie's homemade candy (love dreams, she calls them) and sells door to door. In leisure moments, Ed bangs relentlessly on a xylophone, while his father-in-law (Vince Salazar) and an ancient crony (Norman Stottmeister as Mr. DePinna) emerge from time to time from the basement to test their latest experimental firecracker.

The patriarch of this menagerie is Grandpa Martin Vanderhof, a lovely old dude who, like Harvey's Elwood P. Dowd, has opted to take time to smell the flowers. Halfway up the elevator on his way to his office one day 35 years previous to the play's action, Grandpa experienced a little satori. "I wasn't having any fun," he explains. Grandpa punched the down button, went home, and has proceeded to enjoy his life moment after lovely moment ever since. By the time we meet him, he is the savvy commentator on the action of his family's life, a resolute nonparticipant in the mirthless rat race of the business world, and a crack reporter to God, to whom he gives nightly news reports when he says grace at supper. Played with a laid back, laconic style by Raymond Roy, Grandpa is an irresistible character and the fulcrum of this madcap play.

But every family has its black sheep, and the Sycamores' is Alice (Lori Crisan), a lovely young woman deeply fond of her family and trying to live a "normal" life at the same time. Alice's romantic attachment to her Clark Kent lookalike boss (Brian Burt as Tony Kirby), the aspiring vice president of his father's stuffy Wall Street brokerage, is the occasion of the central conflict of the play. For when the elegantly attired senior Kirbys drop in unexpectedly on the Sycamores, all of Alice's anxiety dreams threaten to take form.

You Can't Take It With You has its uneven moments. Brian Burt, making his acting debut as young Tony Kirby, has some problems with his diction and some too tentative moments; Norman Stottmeister's aged Mr. DePinna, skillfully portrayed with convincing gait and wavering speech, labors under the onus of a distractingly poor makeup job. But the shortcomings are more than made up for in the fast-paced action, the engaging characters, smartly assembled costumes by Leona Rinker, and vintage '30s hairstyles by Cathleen Connell.

Lori Crisan's Alice is lovely and convincing, and Vince Salazar's Paul Sycamore shows growth, playing Alice's understated father with good control. Gina Welch's Penelope is variously a lovable bookish type and a nightmare in cold cream and chenille, conveying a comic range that is a treat to watch. Garyth Tyler's graceless ballerina is likewise a comic high point, and Sherie Lynn Gibbons contributes a funny charicature as the displaced Russian grand duchess Olga Katrina, now a waitress working her way up to Schrafft's. Not to mention Ruth Holden as a lovely drunk in lavender or the wonderfully stuffy senior Kirbys played by Gregg Hale and Michelle Savage.

A prize winning play and Academy Award winning film in the '30s, You Can't Take It With You shows no signs of fading from the American stage. There's still something in it for everybody, and its messages are so gently conveyed that it's an effortless lesson in playwriting.

ROUNDUP

Big band backs up tea dances

A 14-piece big band will provide music for a wide range of dance styles, including two-step, waltz, swing, cha-cha, rumba, samba and rock, during a series of weekly tea dances at the Doubletree Inn in Monterey.

The dances, presented in the DeAnza Ballroom of the Doubletree, will benefit the YWCA of the Monterey Peninsula. Dance dates are 4 to 7 p.m. on Sunday, May 4; Friday, May 16; and Sunday, May 25. Admission is $5 per person. A no-host bar will be available.

'You'll Never Get Rich' screened

Fred Astaire, Rita Hayworth and Robert Benchley co-star in the romantic comedy, You'll Never Get Rich, the Friday, May 2 movie offering at the Carmel Valley Library.

The film will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the library located at 65 W. Carmel Valley Road in the Buckeye Building at the entrance to Carmel Valley Village. Admission is $2 for adults, $1 for children. For more information call 659-2377.

Lupus support group to meet

A support group for patients and families facing the disease of lupus will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday, May 7, at the Hospice Resource Center, 578 Houston St. in Monterey. For details, call 625-0666.

Theater festival welcomes spring

TOSS SPONGES at a living target, pick the pockets of the Pocket Princess and do the cakewalk during the Springtime Festival, arriving Saturday, May 3 at the Forest Theater in Carmel.

The festival theme is "Myths, Legends and Fairytales." Children and adults alike are encouraged to attend in the guise of a favorite character from mythology or fantasy.

Admission is free to the Springtime Festival, which is scheduled for 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Other activities will include juggling lessons and a "can squash." "The cans will be made of medieval aluminum, of course," festival organizers report.

Bagpipers will add their other-worldly musical touch, as children select a dragon from the Floating Dragon Pond and win a prize or have their faces painted by a sorceress. There will also be a puppeteer and a wandering magician in residence.

The festival is designed as a benefit for Children's Experimental Theatre, Inc. Since 1960 CET has introduced children to the many facets of theater production. Each year the CET Traveling Troupe stages plays adapted from children's fairy tales for young audiences in schools around Monterey County.

During Saturday's benefit, tickets will be sold — four for $1. These can be used to purchase "Herculean hot dogs, Promethean chili, supernatural popcorn, Junoesque baked goods and nectar of the gods."

Tickets can also be used to play the games.

The historic Forest Theater is on Santa Rita and Mountain View in Carmel. For more information about this Springtime Festival, call 624-1531.

County symphony series features pianist Ruth Laredo

PIANIST RUTH LAREDO will join the Monterey County Symphony in its final concert series of the season, Monday through Tuesday, May 4-6.

When Ruth Laredo made her debut with the New York Philharmonic, The New York Times called her "the present generation's first truly major American woman pianist." Performing throughout the world, Laredo has achieved distinction in her own country, appearing at Carnegie Hall, the Kennedy Center and the White House, and with the symphony orchestras of Philadelphia, Boston, Cleveland, St. Louis and with the National and American symphonies, among others.

Nominated three times for a Grammy Award, Ruth Laredo has a repertoire that spans the entire range of the piano literature. She is the first person ever to have recorded Rachmaninoff's complete solo piano works, a five-year project for CBS Records, and her recordings of Scriabin's complete sonatas have won universal acclaim and stimulated a revival of interest in his music. Recordings of works by Ravel, Beethoven, Chopin and Tchaikovsky attest to her versatility.

Born in Detroit and now a resident of New York City, Ruth Laredo studied with Rudolf Serkin at The Curtis Institute and made her New York orchestral debut under Leopold Stowkowski. She was one of only five pianists chosen to play in the 90th anniversary celebration of Carnegie Hall. She has made many television appearances include NBC's Today and is a columnist for Keyboard Classics magazine. Recently, she has been commissioned to edit a new Rachmaninoff edition.

She will perform the Piano Concerto No. 1 by Franz Liszt. Laredo's appearance is sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Bialek.

Also on the program will be Haydn's Symphony No. 82, "L'Ours" and Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 4.

The concerts will be conducted by Monterey County Symphony Music Director and Conductor Clark E. Suttle.

The May 4 concert will be performed at King Hall, the Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey. Monterey tickets are $10 for adults, $6 for enlisted military, $5 for students high school age and younger and $4.50 unreserved. Admission to the Monday, May 5 concert in Sunset Theater, Carmel, is $10, $11 and $12.

The orchestra will perform the Tuesday, May 6 concert at Sherwood Hall in Salinas. Salinas tickets are $9.50 for adults, $5 for students high school age or younger, $4.50 for unreserved orchestra and $4 for unreserved balcony.

Tickets for the King Hall performance are available at Abinante Music Store on Alvarado Street in Monterey and at Do Re Mi in The Barnyard, Carmel. Tickets for the Sherwood Hall concert may be purchased at Gadsby's Music in Old Town Salinas and at the Salinas Community Center box office. Tickets for the Sunset Theater performance are available at the symphony office in Carmel. Tickets may also be purchased at the box office the night of the concerts.

For more information, contact the Monterey County Symphony office at 624-8511.

RUTH LARA LAREDO, the first pianist to have recorded the complete solo works of Rachmaninoff and a recent nominee for "Woman of the Year" by the Ladies Home Journal, will appear Sunday through Tuesday, May 4-6, with the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra. For information, call 624-8511 or 758-3594.

Bay symphony joined by Lilian Kallir, two orchestra soloists

THE SIXTH CONCERT series of the Monterey Bay Symphony will feature orchestra members Herb Holtman and David Dally and pianist Lilian Kallir.

Concerts, under the baton of Music Director and Conductor Oleg Kovalenko, will be presented Friday, Saturday and Monday, May 2, 3 and 5.

Lilian Kallir is a regular guest soloist at the major United States summer festivals, including Marlboro, Tanglewood, Aspen and Mostly Mozart. Her career also embraces the roles of solo recitalist and chamber musician.

Among the ensembles with which Kallir has played are the Cleveland, Emerson, Guarneri, Juilliard and Tokyo quartets. Her recording of Mozart's Concerto K. 453, George Cleve conducting, was nominated for a Grammy award.

The pianist has further performed with such conductors as Karajan, Leinsdorf, Kondrashin, Guilini, Haitink, Skrowaczewski and Jochum.

Kallir will perform Beethoven's Symphony No. 3 in E Flat Major, Op. 55.

Monterey Bay Symphony orchestra members Herb Holtman and David Dally, both violinists, will be featured in Bach's Concerto in D minor for Two Violins and Orchestra. Also on the program is Schumann's Concerto in A minor for Piano and Orchestra, Op. 54.

The series opens with an 8 p.m. concert Friday, May 2 at Sunset Theater, San Carlos at Ninth, Carmel. Tickets are $10.

On Saturday, May 3 the Monterey Bay Symphony will perform at Sherwood Hall in Salinas. Tickets are $10; $5 for military, senior citizens and students.

The Monday, May 5 concert will be presented in the Sister Carlotta Performing Arts Center at Santa Catalina School in Monterey. Tickets are $10; $5 for military, senior citizens and students.

For reservations, call 372-6276. Tickets will also be available at the door.

PIANIST LILIAN KALLIR will perform Beethoven's Symphony No. 3 in E Flat Major, Op. 55, "Eroica", with the Monterey Bay Symphony Orchestra during its sixth concert series. For ticket information, call 372-6276.

Human Race will collect funds for many groups

The Fourth Annual Human Race, a walk-a-thon to benefit local non-profit organizations, will take place Saturday, May 10.

The 10-kilometer race is an annual event in which participants can earn money for their favorite non-profit organizations through the collection of pledges. Each walker who will take part in the Human Race will find sponsors and collect pledges for every kilometer walked.

Three-quarters of the money raised will go directly to the organization, agency, school, church or club of the walker's choice. The remaining 25 percent will go towards expenses of Volunteers in Action, the sponsoring organization of the Human Race.

The event will begin and end at Monterey High School and pass through Monterey and Pacific Grove. It is specially designed for children, adults and senior citizens.

Last May, the race raised more than $55,000 for 66 non-profit organizations by more than 700 walkers. The race hopes to increase all figures this year.

Walkers' registration is between 8 and 10 a.m. on the day of the race.

Any non-profit organization wishing to be part of the race can call the Monterey office of Volunteers in Action at 373-6177.

Local youth orchestra to perform two varied concerts

THE YOUTH ORCHESTRA of Monterey County, under the direction of conductor Vincent Gomez, will close its fifth season Friday and Saturday, May 2 and 3 with concerts scheduled in Monterey and Salinas. Admission is free.

Musical programs for both concerts will include the following pieces: Italian Masters Suite, composed of "Harvest Echoes" by Vivaldi, "Slow Dance" by Corelli and "Country Round" by Scarlatti; Overture to "The Shepherd King" by W.A. Mozart; "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" by J.S. Bach; "The Sleeping Beauty Waltz" by Tchaikovsky; First Movement of "Violin Concerto No. 4 in D Major" by W.A. Mozart; "Woodwind Trio" by Pleyel; "Ballet Suite No. 1, Opus 84" by Shostakovich; "March Militaire Francaise" by Saint-Saens; and "Slavonic Dance No. 1" by Anton Dvorak.

The orchestra's Friday, May 2 concert will be performed in the Choral Recital Hall (Room 125) of the Performing Arts Building at Hartnell College, 156 Homestead Ave., Salinas. The Saturday, Ma 3 concert will be presented in the Music Hall (Room M-1) of the Music Building at Monterey Peninsula College, 980 Fremont Blvd., Monterey. Both concerts will begin at 7:30 p.m. Admission is free. A reception will follow the MPC concert.

The Youth Orchestra of Monterey County was founded in 1981 as a non-profit, public benefit, educational institution to provide young, gifted and motivated instrumentalists from throughout Monterey County with the opportunity to learn about symphonic music by actually performing in an orchestra.

Today the Youth Orchestra of Monterey County exists as the only community youth orchestra of its kind in our area.

In any given year, the youth orchestra is made up of 35 to 50 musicians ranging in age from 10 to 20. Instrumentalists come from all over Monterey County, with the Monterey Peninsula and Salinas being the primary sources of talent. Students are accepted into the orchestra through competitive auditions which maintain the high standards of the orchestra.

Youth orchestra students each pay a $100 tuition fee that covers the entire school year. Student fees, however, collectively represent less than a third of the total operating expenditures of the orchestra.

Members practice for two hours every Wednesday from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. during the school year at the Monterey Peninsula College Music Hall. Each program is rehearsed approximately 10 times before a performance.

The youth orchestra puts on three concert programs a year with performances at the Monterey Peninsula College Music Hall, the Hartnell College Choral Recital Hall, and shopping malls in both the Monterey and Salinas areas.

Admission is always free to the concerts, although contributions to the non-profit youth orchestra are encouraged.

A benefit recital featuring area professional musicians is held in the spring to help raise needed funds for the youth orchestra.

The Youth Orchestra of Monterey County is supported by a number of organizations and individuals, including the Monterey County Office of Education, many of the county public school districts and the music educators of this community.

Since the beginning, Monterey Peninsula College has made its facilities available to the youth orchestra for rehearsals and concerts. Hartnell College, Sunset Center, Santa Catalina School and the Kelley Gallery of Monterey have also provided special use of their facilities for concerts as well.

Abinante Music has donated a grand piano on several occasions. Hans Wildau has made his harpsichord available. Flutist Ray Fabrizio and classical guitarist Terrence Farrell have each performed benefit recitals as fund-raisers. And the youth orchestra has received the personal support of composer Alan Hovhaness, who served as composer-in-residence during its first year.

Grants have been received from several charitable organizations and government agencies, including the Monterey County Office of Education, the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District, the Monterey Peninsula Foundation, the Monterey Jazz Festival, Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services, the Upjohn California Fund, the Bing Crosby Youth Fund, the Dunspaugh-Dalton Foundation, the Nancy Buck Ransom Foundation, the Pebble Beach Foundation, the David and Lucile Packard Foundation and cities of Monterey, Carmel, Pacific Grove and Seaside.

MEMBERS OF THE Youth Orchestra of Monterey County will perform a varied classical program during two free concerts. The series, presented Friday at Hartnell College in Salinas and Saturday at Monterey Peninsula College in Monterey, will includes works by Saint-Saens, Dvorak, Mozart and Vivaldi.

MUSIC CORNER
BY JO ANN LA TORRA

Youthful jazz group shines, pianist misses the mark

THE HIGHLIGHT of this past week's music was surely the Aptos High Jazz Band at the Monterey Church of Religious Science, on Friday, April 25. Under the direction of Don Keller, this high school group has won awards all over the place, and has toured Europe and Japan.

Piano, guitar (alas, electric), bass, percussion, saxophones (alto, tenor, baritone), trumpets and trombones make up the ensemble, and their staple is the big band sound of the '30s and '40s.

Their opening number, Moonlight Serenade, from the Glenn Miller orchestra, predisposed the audience in their favor at once. During the course of the evening, they played tunes by Duke Ellington, Count Basie, Benny Goodman, Les Brown and Woody Herman. Director Keller has done an excellent job; giving them a thorough understanding of the past, he then encourages the kids to find their own voices. Later influences show up here and there, but that means the students are listening and experimenting, which is all to the good.

They all play well, but the pianist and one of the alto sax players were especially fine, with a sensitivity in rhythm and phrasing that belied their ages.

My one modest suggestion to Mr. Keller would be to offer more instruction in stage deportment. Acknowledgement of applause and response to the audience's enthusiasm was awkward.

This band is a regular class at Aptos High. The students are learning not only to perform, they are learning music theory and some music history which they will remember because it is alive. Evidently, the program is in jeopardy. Once again, we are faced with the short-sightedness of the powers-that-be. These kids meet daily; most of them study privately (at their own expense) and must therefore practice on the outside. My guess is that they are all average and above in their other studies. But we must get Back to Basics and Teach Discipline. Therefore, let us get rid of any courses that threaten to do just that. Merciful heavens!

PIANIST CONSTANTINE Orbelian appeared on Tuesday, April 22 at the Pacific Grove Middle School, under the auspices of the Monterey Peninsula Concert Association.

His opening choice, the C minor Fantasy of Bach, is one of the handful of Bach pieces beloved of pianists because they can be played in a thoroughly 19th century style and not sound so bad. And so it was.

Bach was followed by Beethoven, Sonata Op. 81a, "Les Adieux." Orbelian's reading of this intense work was curiously nonchalant. He skipped repeats that are crucial to the form of the piece. The second movement, Andanta (from "andar" — to walk), was extremely slow. The finale was not really thought out, virtually all the notes being created equal.

Instead of the promised Brahms and Liszt, Orbelian subsituted four pieces by Rachmaninoff. They were loud, fast, and almost totally devoid of content.

The Chopin choices did not appeal to me, nor did the prospect of an Armenian composer whose music, according to the notes, "combines elements from Rachmaninoff, Prokofiev, and Khatchaturian." I didn't make it back after intermission.

There has been a depressing sameness to the piano concerts that I personally deplore. The typical program opens with one of the handful of Bach pieces mentioned above, proceeds with a Beethoven Sonata, and all the rest of the program is Romantic, with Chopin far outdistancing any other composer. The amount of 20th century music, even safely before 1950, is barely noticeable. Is it that we are consdered provincial here, and the artists play it safe? Or are pianists losing the knack of imaginative programming?

Astronomy research institute seeks volunteers

The Monterey Institute for Research in Astronomy (MIRA) is developing material for its 1986/87 school outreach program and needs volunteers to assist with the project.

The school outreach program is presented to fourth, fifth and sixth grade children in elementary schools throughout Monterey County. Next fall's theme will be a manned mission to Mars. This topic will allow MIRA to develop materials ranging from nutrition and packing your suitcase for a space voyage to gravity and comparisons between Mars and Earth.

The next meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 6 at 2959 Highway 68, near Monterey Peninsula Airport. Subsequent meetings will be held each Tuesday at the same time and location. Because MIRA's office is inconspicuous, volunteers should note that it is the same building occupied by IBM.

Volunteers are needed to assist with all aspects of the program. A student newsletter, classroom activities, games, computer software and take-home activities are all being developed. Talents needed include writing, graphics, drawing, computer skills, typing, recordkeeping and lots of imagination.

Volunteers with school-age children who are willing to review the activities and written material are also encouraged to participate.

For more information, contact the MIRA office.

World Affairs Council explores global trade

"International Trade, Finance and Investment: Can the U.S. Compete and Cooperate Effectively?" is the topic of the 1986 World Affairs Council of Northern California's 40th Annual Conference, slated May 3 through 5 at the Asilomar Conference Grounds in Pacific Grove. Chia-Wei Woo, president of San Francisco State University, will chair the conference.

Economist Lester Thurow, professor of economics and management at M.I.T., will deliver the Friday evening keynote address. Nicholas Ardito Barletta, former president of Panama, and Donald Ephlin, vice president of the International Union of United Auto Workers, will speak on Saturday morning. Symposia and seminars on international trade and economic issues will also be held throughout the weekend conference.

More than 800 members of the World Affairs Council of Northern California are expected to attend the conference. On-grounds accommodations are almost sold out but space is still available to attend conference sessions only.

Cost for members attending the conference without accommodations is $75 and $45 for student members.

Saturday-only registration costs $40 for members and $25 for student members. For more information, call the World Affairs Council.

Arnold Schoenberg and received his master's degree. Reher has been on the faculty of a number of universities including UCLA and a member of several symphonies, such as the Los Angeles Philharmonic. Reher's compositions have been published and he has recorded for Orion, SPA and GSC. He is presently principal violist in the San Luis Obispo County Symphony and the California Chamber Symphony. He is a member of the Santa Barbara Symphony and conductor of the Santa Maria String Ensemble.

Charles Fulkerson, conductor, pianist and violist, was professor of music for 36 years at Humboldt State University where he received several awards for distinguished teaching and services. As conductor of the Humboldt Symphony for 30 years he played a major role in its development and growth. Fulkerson is known to Carmel audiences having participated many times as soloist in the Bach Festival.

Robert Karon, trumpet, is an alumnus of UCLA and the Juilliard School and has toured South America, Europe and the Far East with the Mexico City Philharmonic.

Rosario Mazzeo, clarinet, is an author, teacher and lecturer. He retired to Carmel after a career with the Boston Symphony. He served as administrator of the Tanglewood Music Festival for 32 years and head of the Woodwind Department at the New England Conservatory.

Geoffrey Rutkowski, cello, studied with Zara Nelsova and later with Pablo Casals in Puerto Rico. He has performed throughout Europe, Asia and North America.

Single tickets for the Sunday awards concert are $4 at the door for non-members. The Saturday auditions are open to the public and are free of charge. Donations will be accepted. Memberships in the Chamber Music Society for the 1986/87 season are now available. For information call 372-5981.

VIOLIST AND COMPOSER Sven Reher will serve as judge coordinator during the 15th annual Carmel Chamber Music Competition.

Carmel Music Society scholarship winners named

J.D. CLINTON, president of the Carmel Music Society, and Ruth Stuckey, chairman of the Competition Committee, announced the winners of the society's 1986 competition Saturday evening, April 26, at Sunset Theater in Carmel. The competition, which was for pianists under the age of 31, was held during the day and culminated in a recital at which the three winners performed.

First prize winner was John Sutherland Earle of Palo Alto. Earle, 27, was born in Chile but spent most of his childhood in Louisiana. He holds a bachelor of music degree from Oberlin Conservatory, and a B.A. from Oberlin College. He now attends Stanford University. His principal teachers have been Peter Takacs and Adolph Baller. He has been the recipient of a number of awards including a National Merit Scholarship and a National Science Foundation Graduate Fellowship.

Second prize went to Paner Ying of San Francisco. Ying, 21, is a student of Paul Hersh and Mack McCray at the San Francisco Conservatory of Music. She was born in China and began playing the piano at the age of eight. She attended the Shanghai Conservatory of Music where she studied with Wang Yu and Li Mingduo and graduated with honors a year early. She came to the United States in 1981.

Third prize was awarded to Timothy Ehlen of Glendale. Ehlen, 23, is a graduate student at the University of Southern California where he is studying under John Perry. He performs regularly in solo and chamber music recitals in Northern and Southern California. He has also performed at the Aspen Music Festival. He is currently on the faculty of the Namaste Music School in Hollywood.

Judges for the competition were Adolf Baller of Stanford University, Nohema Fernandez of the University of California at Santa Cruz and Wolfgang Fetsch of the University of the Pacific Conservatory.

The first prize consisted of a check for $1,000 and a contract for $1,500 to perform during the next Carmel Music Society season. The second and third prizes were $750 and $500, respectively.

Reduced-fee rabies vaccination clinics offered

A series of reduced-fee rabies vaccination clinics will take place at locations throughout Monterey County through May 22.

The clinics will be co-sponsored by the Monterey County Health Department and the Monterey Bay Veterinary Association. Six of these clinics will be in the Monterey-Big Sur area, seven in the Salinas-North County area and seven in South County.

A clinic will take place from 1:30 to 4 p.m. Saturday, May 3 at the Big Sur Grange Hall.

A valid rabies vaccination certificate is required when applying for a new or renewal dog license. Puppies should be given their first rabies vaccine at the age of four months. The booster is due one year later.

Thereafter rabies revaccination is required at intervals no longer than three years (36 months). The law permits the vaccine to be given between 24 and 36 months. This allows dog owners to time revaccination of their dog to coincide with the county's licensing and thus avoid unnecessary repetition of vaccination. Dog owners are therefore strongly urged, whenever possible, to revaccinate their dogs against rabies between April 1 and May 31.

All dogs must be leashed at the clinics, in compliance with local leash laws, and for safety and protection of other animals and owners.

For more information, call 373-0111 or 899-4271.

Seca season opener set Saturday

Stroh Brewery's sponsorship of the Camel Grand Prix main event is a first at Laguna Seca. Stroh previously sponsored the CART/PPG Indy Car World Series main event here last October.

SPI, Inc. is a Monterey conglomerate with a dozen companies under its umbrella. These include a toy company, soft luggage, camera and jewelry and Downs-Petroff Racing. Its support of the Camel GTO/GTU main event is also a first.

This 100-km sprint race also has a spectacular field, reaturing top drivers and many makes of cars. Bruce Jenner, the former Olympian, has a Mustang; Craig Carter and Tommy Riggens have Firebirds; Bob Leitzinger and George Alderman are in Nissans; Mazda fans can cheer for Amos Johnson, Bob Reed and Al Bacon; Toyota's fans can pull for Dennis Aase, last year's winner.

Former karting champion Scott Pruett of Roseville will drive for Ford, Gene Felton for Oldsmobile, Clay Young for Pontiac, Terry Visger and Bob Earl for Pontiac and Joe Huffaker and Bob Lobenberg will be in a Chevy Camaro.

The Champion Spark Plug Challenge field is nearly three times its size of a year ago. More than 30 entries have been logged and the peppy front-wheel drive sedans should put on quite a show here.

The Jim Russell Pro Series is sanctioned by the Sports Car Club of America this year and joins road racing's "farm system" of providing a training ground for young drivers. The first race of the series this year was decided by 0.003 seconds — thus, competition is intense.

In the WCAR main event, we may have another first with two second-generation brothers competing against each other. That would be Wally Dallenbach, Jr. and his younger brother Paul. They are the sons of former Indy car driver Wally Dallenbach.

Tickets are available now at all BASS Ticket Centers, Ticketron outlets, Laguna Seca's regular outlets or by telephone (408) 373-1811 weekdays between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. The telephone number is the Laguna Seca office, where Visa and MasterCard are accepted.

Fish and Game labs admit visitors Saturday, May 3

A ONCE-A-YEAR opportunity to view the mass cultivation of red and pink abalones and other endangered creatures arrives Saturday, May 3 during the 15th annual open house at the Marine Resources Laboratory and the Marine Pollution Studies Laboratory.

These facilities, operated by the California Department of Fish and Game, are located at Granite Canyon, nine miles south of Carmel on the ocean side of Highway 1. Open house hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Primary studies at the Marine Resources Laboratory involve mass cultivation of red and pink abalones. The laboratory's cultured abalones are used for experimental seeding programs in southern California. Other research at the laboratory involves clams, scallops and oysters.

The adjacent Marine Pollution Studies Laboratory is studying impacts of common marine pollutants on California marine life. Currently, larval and embryonic stages of abalones, mysid shrimps and anchovies, are being investigated, as well as giant kelp.

Visitors of all ages are welcome to attend the open house. In addition to displays of ongoing activities, there will be exhibits from other Department of Fish and Game central California marine projects. These will include fish, shellfish and sea otter displays, as well as a touch tank.

Staff will be available to discuss marine biology topics and to explain the department's research and management programs.

WHAT'S PLAYING AT THE MOVIES

Band of the Hand: Judged incorrigible by the juvenile courts, five young men, all tough products of the Miami streets, are sent to a special detention project in the Everglades. Police Academy 3 — Back in Training: Steve Guttenberg and Bob "Bobcat" Goldthwait co-star in this comedy sequel. At the Hill Theatre. 375-2800.

Pretty in Pink: Molly Ringwald portrays Andie Walsh in John Hughes' fable about a resourceful young woman from the other — and poor — side of the tracks. In a suburban high school where the students are predominantly from wealthy families and snobbish social circles, Andie manages to assert her own individuality in a haughty, cloned environment. At the Regency Theatre. 375-6696.

Rocky Horror Picture Show: A send-up of remembered monster movies, with the added twist of music, "The Time Warp," "Over at the Frankenstein Place," and an audience that seems to know the lines better than the actors. A long-standing cult classic. Rated R. At the Dream Theater. 372-1331.

Community band recruits musicians

The Monterey Community Band now rehearses on Tuesday evenings. Rehearsals are from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the Monterey Community Center, 542 Archer St., Monterey.

The City of Monterey established this all-volunteer community band. A number of local musicians at varying levels of proficiency have already committed to the effort. There is a need for additional band members.

Persons interested are welcome to join in at any time. Free community performances will be scheduled as the group progresses, with most occurring in outdoor settings.

There are no fees involved but musicians must provide their own instruments and music stand. Rehearsals are year-round. Heinrich Bender, serves as conductor.

For more details, call the City of Monterey Parks and Recreation Department, 646-3866.

Marlowe photographs exhibited

PHOTOGRAPHER Catharina Marlowe will show her work at the Cherry Foundation, Fourth and Guadalupe, in Carmel. The exhibit will open with a reception at 2 p.m. Saturday, May 3. The show will run through May 31, and can be viewed 2 to 4:30 p.m. Wednesdays through Sundays, or by appointment.

Marlowe was born in the Netherlands and has lived in the United States since 1966. She has an M.A. in psychology from U.C. Santa Cruz, and worked at the university's photo lab for 10 years. Marlowe's primary interests are landscapes and the female form. Most of the photographs in the show were taken on a bicycle trip through England and the Netherlands. She has shown in Europe and California. This is her seventh exhibit.

For more information, call the Cherry Foundation at 624-7491.

THIS LANDSCAPE CAPTURED in the Netherlands is among the photographs by Dutch-born photographer Catharina Marlowe that will be shown at Cherry Hall in Carmel through May. An opening reception is planned for 2 p.m. Saturday, May 3 at Cherry Hall.

Foundation shows Thelma Mahrt paintings

Paintings by Thelma Mahrt will be featured throughout May at the Carmel Foundation, Lincoln Street and Eighth Avenue, Carmel.

A native of Oregon, Mahrt received her bachelor's degree from the University of Oregon and entered teaching. She was later employed as a secretary in the English department and the school of law at her alma mater.

Ultimately she moved to San Francisco, then to Salinas, where she raised her family and entered the art world.

This desire has been fostered by travels with her husband. The art galleries of Europe influenced the suggestion of "faraway places" that are evidenced in some of Mahrt's paintings.

At Hartnell College in Salinas the artist learned fundamental principles of drawing and experienced the challenge of drawing from live models. Next came an introduction to color when she studied oil painting with Girard Aiken.

A new medium — acrylics — was experienced when she joined a class conducted by Des Matthews. In this class she has explored several of the applications made possible by acrylics — thick texture, thin washes, mixed media and collage.

Mahrt recently became interested in watercolor and has taken classes in that medium from Nancy Johnson of Carmel and Karen Nagano at Hartnell College.

She has continued to study with Des Matthews in her favored medium, acrylics, for almost 10 years. She has also attended workshops led by E. Norton Ward, Rex Brandt and Jane Burnham.

Mahrt is a member of the Salinas Valley Art Association and is a working member of the Valley Art Gallery.

She has a number of juried shows to her credit, both at Steinbeck Library in Salinas and at the Monterey County Fair, plus two "Featured Artist of the Month" exhibits.

She said of her work, "I paint from my surroundings whatever intrigues my fancy: something growing in the garden, a grandchild (or two), a knothole, a shaft of light on the kitchen counter, an unusual shape or idea.

"Painting is the way in which I express my joy in living and my appreciation of all the things around us that make living worthwhile. I paint because it is my reason for getting up in the morning."

New exhibits open at P.G. Art Center

An opening reception for new exhibits arriving at the Pacific Grove Art Center is planned for 7 to 9 p.m. Friday, May 2.

Weavings by Joan Ward-Summers and sculpture by Carol Setterlund will be featured in the David Henry Gill Gallery. Designs produced in Jackie Warren's children's art class will be spotlighted in the Hall Gallery.

Admission is free to the Pacific Grove Art Center, 568 Lighthouse Ave. in Pacific Grove. For details, call 375-2208.

ROUNDUP

Italian, Chinese, British films shown

An international film program will be screened May 1 through 7 by the Monterey Peninsula Film Society.

A subtle spoof of crime films, Big Deal on Madonna Street, will be shown Thursday, May 1. The 1960 production, in Italian with subtitles, stars Marcello Mastroianni, Vittorio Gassman, Renato Salvatori and Claudia Cardinale.

The peninsula premiere of Ann Hui's The Boat People will be presented Friday through Sunday, May 2-4. The 1983 film tells of a Japanese photojournalist symphathetic to the Communist regime in Vietnam. He returns three years after the war to find that the socialist paradise he imagined is reallly just the opposite. The Boat People will be shown in Mandarin with subtitles.

Jean Renoir's The River is the film offering Wednesday and Thursday, May 7-8. Nora Swinburne stars in this 1951 British production, a sometimes-haunting portrait of a young English girl growing up on the banks of a holy river in Bengal, India.

All films begin at 8:15 p.m. in Morse Auditorium, Monterey Institute of International Studies, 440 Van Buren St. in Monterey. Tickets are $3.50 general, $3 students, $2.75 senior citizens and $2 for Monterey Peninsula Film Society members. For details, call 659-4795 between 5 p.m. and show time.

Rose tours, sales and lecture planned

Romance of Old Roses author Barbara Worl will address the Saturday, May 3 gathering of the Heritage Roses Group. Following the 10 a.m. to noon lecture in the community room of The Crossroads, participants will be given directions to open rose gardens that can be toured around the Monterey Peninsula.

The meeting is free and open to all. Participants should bring a brown bag lunch and some cookies to share. Coffee and tea will be provided. Bring old roses to exchange or sell. The Crossroads is at Rio Road off Highway 1, Carmel. For more information, call 375-5847.

About Bulls & Bears & Savings Bonds.

The stock market says that bulls are good and bears are bad. But if you buy U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan, you can get the most out of both markets.

Rates are high during bull markets, so the variable interest rate you get on Bonds lets you share in those higher returns.

But if the bear takes over and rates fall, don't panic: you're protected by a guaranteed minimum of 7.5%.

Just hold your Bonds 5 years or more, and you can ride the bull and beat the bear.

Take stock in America.

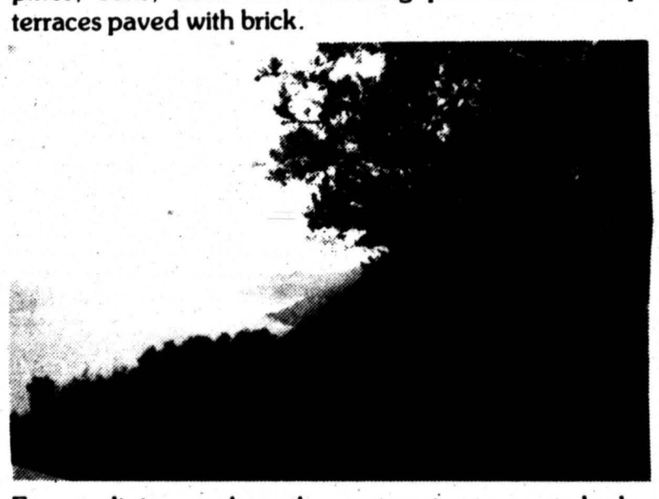
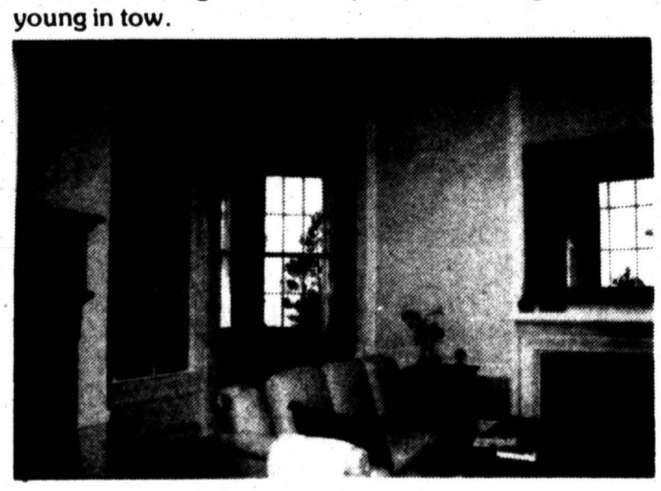
Amid The Magnificence Of THE BIG SUR COAST

Miles of magnificent view, encompassing surf-fringed shoreline and the seaward sweep of the Santa Lucia Mountains, is a never ending fascination — in the sunny stillness of daytime, sunset glory or mystic moonlight — if you live in this home with guest house on three clifftop acres in Coastlands, a private area on the Big Sur Coast, approximately 30 miles south of Carmel, and close to both Ventana and Nepenthe.

Constructed of selected "heart of redwood," with shingled roofs, the structures exemplify the elegance of the American Federalist period of American architecture. A brick-paved central courtyard separates the main residence from the utility/workshop and guest house with fireplace, bar/kitchen and full bath. Lovely landscaping features lawns, low-care planting, pines, oaks, deck with reflecting pool and cliff-top terraces paved with brick.



From a dining nook on the western terrace, one looks north along the coastline to famed Pfeiffer Point, a haven for yachts and fishing boats, whose lights are friendly beacons each evening. Also from this outlook are viewed the annual migrations of the Gray Whale from the Bering Sea to Baja and back again with young in tow.



Paned windows soaring to 14-foot-high, beamed wood ceilings, polished parquet floors, graceful moldings and manteled fireplace framed in pictorial tiles are dramatic features of the main residence. Newly renovated, the beautifully tiled kitchen and bathrooms offer added elegance to this exceptional property. Contact Hank Adams or Linda Mazet in our Coast Properties Division for your personal tour. $925,000.
